A Woman at 49
Money Is Easier
Defense by Retaliation
One Animal, Two Brains

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

ETHEL BARRYMORE, 49 years old yesterday, told friends she was celebrating like "as much as ever."

She ought to be enjoying life MORE than ever.

For an intelligent woman real life begins at 49. Wise Providence won't let women do important mental work much before 50. Up to that age nature intends women to be busy with children.

THE money situation is better for prosperity and business. Apparently federal reserve authorities have decided that promoting usurious rates of interest in order to "let out" reluctant financiers that sold the market short a year ago, is not wise.

The price of "call money" dropped to 4½ per cent yesterday, lowest since March 7.

The day before the rate was 7 per cent, quite a change.

• • •

WHEN the president returns from fishing he might have a commission of his own to investigate responsibilities that sold the market short a year ago and got the federal reserve to help them "cover their foolishness.

• • •

LONDON authorities, after the latest air war, announce unanimously "London cannot be defended successfully by anti-aircraft measures. The only real safety lies in attacking the raiders."

• • •

ENOUGH airplanes to repel attacks require gigantic air fleets. The best plan is to prepare a great air fleet to drop bombs and poison gas so that no enemy would dare attack, knowing that its own cities would be immediately destroyed by British forces.

• • •

SOME day our country will think about air defense. It hasn't even established a separate air force. We tie our flying forces to old army and navy fogies. That is like leaving management of railroads to an old stage coach line.

• • •

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS, searching for strange things in Central Asia, reports finding an extinct monster "as big as the Woolworth building."

Such an animal if carnivorous, could carry home in its mouth a couple of elephants and walk through an ordinary city crushing buildings as it went.

But it had a small head, little or no thinking power. That is why it is no longer with us.

• • •

THE biggest dinosaur thus far known had one brain in its head and another half way down the spine, to work the lower part of the body. It didn't enough energy in the top brain to work the whole dinosaur.

Sometimes when you consider our government, you feel that this country is getting in the dinosaur class, and needs another brain located somewhere along the line.

COMMANDER BYRD takes a band with him to the south pole. The seals, whales and penguins will also hear a fine talking machine supplied with 250 records.

• • •

THE sad little penguins, so gentle, trustful and harmless, will waddle up to hear the music and get knocked on the head for their pains and eaten.

This reminds you of old kings that sent out bands to play with their soldiers. The soldiers marched cheerfully behind until they were knocked on the head, human penguins.

MIGHTY is the power of time and compound interest. In 1858, seventy years ago, Ehrhardt V. Franz, having made $97,786 in the grocery business, left it in trust. A federal court reports that it now amounts to $10,000,000.

Save money and it will save you. Poverty is slavery. The man without dollar must do what the man with dollar tells him to do. So get your dollar.

ANOTHER Atlantic flight. Bert Hassell started yesterday morning for Stockholm, Sweden.

Soon the public will feel about ordinary ocean flights with no lovely lady attached as the London bus conductor felt who said to the lady going up stairs holding her skirts tightly: "Legs is no treat to me, ma'am."

• • •

MERELY flying across the ocean in a dangerous plane is no longer important. As Henry Ford says, the important thing is to produce a plane that will make ocean flying absolutely safe.

• • •

FORTY-FOUR tire manufacturers will guarantee their products, material and workmanship, for the life of the tire.

A more valuable idea would be to guarantee lower, fairer retail prices. It is ridiculous to pay 40 per cent more than a tire costs to the man that rolls it across the floor. It doesn't even need to be wrapped up. Expensive distribution is the curse of business.

MEXICAN firing squads are still busy. San Luis Potosi reports seven "insurgents" executed. Fourteen "insurgents" were killed in open battle.

WARNER AND COOPER PLAN G. O. P. SESSION

Aug. 24 Tentatively Set for Organization Meeting of Committee

HOLD CONFERENCE

State Chairman and Nominee for Governor Discuss Program at Columbus

That the first meeting of the Republican state central committee for the purpose of organizing for the fall campaign would be held in Columbus on Aug. 24 appeared probable today following a conference yesterday between Myers Y. Cooper, Republican gubernatorial nominee, and Fred W. Warner, chairman of the committee.

The date has not been definitely set but Warner was sending out calls from his office here today to various members of the committee asking if Aug. 24 would be satisfactory.

Selection of a chairman of the committee will be one of the first steps taken at the meeting, Warner said today following his return from Columbus.

The chairmanship has been held for the last four years by Warner. Whether he will be renamed to the post for another year will depend entirely upon the members of the committee and the desires of Republican candidates, he said.

5 SLEEP IN HOME AS ROBBERS WORK

Occupants of North Main st. Dwelling Undisturbed by Intruders

While five persons slept undisturbed in upstairs bedrooms, burglars late last night or early this morning ransacked the downstairs rooms at the home of Howard Hughes, 896 North Main st., and escaped with a woman's wrist watch as the sole reward for their efforts.

Gaining entrance by removing the screen from the window in the kitchen, the burglars made a thorough search of the drawers of desks, a bookcase and sideboard in the rooms on the lower floor without making the slightest noise to attract the attention of the persons sleeping upstairs.

The burglary was discovered when Mrs. Hughes entered the kitchen at 5:30 o'clock this morning to prepare breakfast. Mrs. Hughes and her husband, their son, Carl, and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller were occupants of the house during the night.

The burglars confined their search for valuables to the downstairs and did not attempt to go upstairs when their search proved unsuccessful with the exception of finding the wrist watch, which was the property of Mrs. Miller. A large quantity of silverware in the sideboard was left undisturbed, Mrs. Hughes stated today.

Although no clues were left, Mrs. Hughes believes the burglary to be the work of boys. Before retiring at 11 o'clock last night, Mrs. Hughes stated today, she noticed a group of boys gathered in front of her house. After watching the group for several minutes, the boys moved on farther down the street and she retired. The rest of the family had retired before Mrs. Hughes.

The burglars are believed to have left the house by unlocking the back door. The door was found unlocked this morning.

FIRE SIX SHOTS AT PROSECUTOR'S HOME

Official Had Been Active in Bootleg Cleanup in Greene County

Xenia, Aug. 17—Six shots from .32 caliber automatic pistols were fired into the home of Prosecutor J. C. Marshall early this morning. No clues to the identity of the occupants of a large closed auto from which the shots were fired could be learned, according to Marshall and police.

The Marshall family was asleep at the time, but awakened in time to see the machine drive away.

Prosecutor Marshall has been active in a bootleg cleanup in Greene county and was nominated at the Tuesday primary for his third term. It is believed by police that rum runners may have been back of the move. Marshall says that he has no known enemies.

LEVINE PLANS HOP

Figures in Sensational Race Among Fliers To Be First to U. S.

Paris, Aug. 17—Charles A. Levine, American flier and owner of the transatlantic plane Columbia, is a figure in a sensational race among fliers here to be the first to hop off for the United States and make a non-stop flight.

Levine said he was going to London today to arrange to get transatlantic weather reports from the British meteorological office. If he succeeds he will return here to resume preparations for the flight. He hopes to get away before the first of September although the Junkers plane he bought at Dessau won't be delivered to him until Aug. 31. That would allow only a few days for tests.

Medina Supporter of Begg Determined to "Get" Moore, Dustman Out of League

E. R. Root Asks Trustees of Organization To Notify Him of Next Meeting; Wants To "Clean House;" Accuses Pair of Assuming Inordinate Authority

Medina, Aug. 17—Bitter dissension within the ranks of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, resulting from recent political moves by officials of the league, will flare into the open and bring a drastic "house-cleaning" if E. R. Root, local bee expert and prominently connected with the league in Ohio for many years, has his way.

Interviewed at his home here today, Root admitted that he was making every effort to "get" E. J. Moore, state superintendent of the league, and Freeman Dustman, editor of the American Issue, the league's official publication. Moore and Dustman, Root charges, have assumed inordinate authority.

He has asked the trustees of the organization to notify him of their next meeting and allow him to appear, Root said.

"I want Dustman to be there and hear what I have to say. I'll say a plenty," he promised.

League Is Split

The Ohio league has been virtually split over the action of officials in issuing a sample ballot, previous to last Tuesday's primary, on which "favorable" candidates were listed. Myers Y. Cooper was the choice, on this list, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. His opponents and the opponents of others whose names appeared on the sample ballot contend that the discrimination was unfair and was not based on actual records of the candidates with regard to prohibition.

Root declared today, however, that the trouble dates further back than the primary election and that the officials have been assuming authority in political matters without the consent of the league's trustees as long ago as the campaign on the Marshall justice-of-the-peace bill.

Furthermore, Root said he had learned that he had been removed as

NORTH CAROLINA IS HARD HIT BY FLOODS

Six Lives Taken by Tornado and Swollen Streams After Storms

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 17—With the loss of six lives and property damage estimated at millions of dollars, North Carolina today was recovering from floods and storms which have swept the state during the past few days.

Two persons were killed in a tornado which struck Ashley Heights near Southern Pines, yesterday and four others have died as the result of drowning in streams in western North Carolina.

Most damage was done in western North Carolina where rivers and creeks, already swollen as the result of torrential rains of last week, burst out of their banks. Many homes and other structures were swept away.

Believe Worst Over

The waters of the Swannanoa, Broad, Catawba and Yadkin rivers which caused most of the trouble in western Carolina were reported to be receding today, and unless there are more rains it was felt that the worst of the flood was over.

Train service between Asheville and Salisbury, discontinued Wednesday because of washouts, will be restored late today, Southern railway officials said. It will be several days before traffic on several state highways leading into Asheville can be restored on account of

New York, Aug. 17—Simplified motion pictures in natural colors, for use in homes will be placed on the market within 30 days, it was announced today by Frederick T. O'Grady, of Flushing, N. Y., their inventor. He announced that Natural Color Pictures, Inc., had been formed to manufacture and market the device.

A demonstration of the improved color movies, before experts, showed many advantages, it was said, over the colored motion picture film, in that many duplicates can be made from the original negative as with ordinary film, and a picture of full theater size may be produced.

COSTA RICA'S QUESTION WILL GO UNANSWERED

STOP STREET TRAFFIC LIST NOW OVER 800

75 License Numbers Added by Police in Campaign Against Violators

The list of stop street violators falling into the net placed by local police at street intersections of the city since the campaign was launched nearly two weeks ago swelled to more than 800 yesterday when the license numbers of 75 automobiles were collected it was reported today.

The 75 numbers of automobiles driven by persons alleged to have violated the ordinance were taken at Silver and Leader sts. where a large number of violations have taken place since the start of the campaign.

Plans are now under way at municipal court for the second special session of the traffic cases to be held next Wednesday. About 225 motorists were fined at the first special session of the court, last Wednesday.

FRICTION LESSENS

China's Reply To Recent Japanese Note Is Received

London, Aug. 17—A lessening of the friction between Japan and China was indicated by an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokio today. It stated that China's reply to the recent Japanese note bearing upon some of the issues in dispute has been received at Tokio and will soon be made public.

It is reported at Tokio that the Chinese communication does not touch the question of withdrawal of China's notice that the treaty with Japan has been abrogated. It is understood that Japan will not insist upon withdrawal of the Chinese notice.

The dispatch added there is a strong feeling that China is showing a sincere desire for an agreement and is gradually abandoning the attitude of hostility towards Japan.

VOLCANO AGAIN ERUPTS

Naples, Italy, Aug. 17—The eruption of the volcano Mount Vesuvius increased in violence today. A new mouth has opened, in the center from which molten lava is streaming. Dr. Malladra, director of the Mount Vesuvius observatory, is growing anxious over the increased activity of the volcano.

DEMOCRATS GO AFTER FARMERS WITH CREDIT

Wall Street Hears of Plan To Establish $50,000,000 Capital Bank

PLAN IS DARING

Soundness of Project Doubted by Practical Politicians of Both Parties

New York, Aug. 17—Wall Street was stirred today by apparently well-founded reports that the Democratic campaign managers are seriously considering one of the most daring plans of appeal for the farm vote ever suggested in American politics—a plan to organize a New York bank with $50,000,000 capital to extend easy credit to the agricultural regions for the marketing of the now maturing crops.

A. F. C. Fiske, well known in the financial district for his connection with one of the largest insurance companies in the country, acknowledged today that "informal discussion" of such a plan had occurred.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National committee, and William F. Kenny, wealthy New York contractor who was the principal financial backer of the Smith pre-convention campaign, are named in Wall Street gossip as two of those interested in the preliminary discussions of the project.

Would Have Appeal

Raskob declined to discuss the Wall Street reports further than to affirm that a suggestion had been made to him by farm leaders earlier this week that wealthy friends of Governor Smith league together in some plan to assist the farmers during the campaign.

This plan was originally presented to Raskob by Grey Silver of Washington, D. C., formerly legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Such a move, Silver argued, would enable Democratic campaign speakers in the farm belt to point to actual steps in the direction of agricultural relief while the campaign was still in progress. Admittedly, Silver said, such a plan would have a tremendous political appeal, but the practical diffi-

ACTOR ENDS LIFE BY INHALING LIGHT GAS

"Character" Role Is Filled to End; Police Fooled by Makeup

Boston, Aug. 17—"William Scott, 65, gray hair, dressed in old-fashioned clothes, killed himself by inhaling illuminating gas in a Carver st. rooming house."

From out of this routine police report today came one of the most tragic stories ever written of the American stage.

Assistants of Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath were performing an autopsy when a wig fell to the floor of Southern mortuary. The wig had hidden the fair hair of a young man of 25. Then the story was unfolded.

Robert Noble had played as a character actor in Boston and New York. His favorite role was that of the "old colonel type." Noble was so ambitious and he studied so hard that his eyes failed him.

Threatened with complete blindness and the loss of his career, he decided to end it all. But he "went out" in his favorite role. He had "made up" so well that the physician who pronounced him dead never noticed the deception. Police too failed to see that the lines on his face were those of paint and that the gray hair and goatee were false.

Noble had made his exit "in character."

HELD IN THEFT

Cashier Takes $75,000 from Treasury of Company

New York, Aug. 17—Walter B. Whiteford, cashier for D. C. Heath and Co., publishers, today in police headquarters told how he had stolen from $50,000 to $75,000 in the last six years and had spent all the money on his family or had turned it over to his wife.

Whiteford was arrested as he returned with his wife and 4 daughters, 14, from a vacation trip to the Pacific coast. Mrs. Whiteford was dumbfounded by the arrest and confession and said she believed her husband to be making a large salary as no luxury had been denied them by him, although six years ago she had laughed at him when he told her he was getting only $60 a week salary. It was after that the thefts through raising of checks began.

TAKES LIFE WHEN GAS FUMES CAUSE ILLNESS

Cincinnati, Aug. 17—Ernest Dunlon, 52, is dead here today of a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head. Dunlon was suffering from the effects of poisonous monoxide gas fumes inhaled a week ago when he was working under his automobile. He shot himself through the head in the bathroom of his home in Norwood, Cincinnati suburb, yesterday, dying later in a hospital.

Dunlon was said to have received sufficiently to express regret for his act.

Few Errors Are Found as Official Count of Primary Balloting is Started Here

Change of 17 Votes in Democratic Supreme Court Race Largest Error Discovered Thus Far; City Count Made for Several Offices; May Complete Work Early Next Week

Few errors in the unofficial count of ballots cast at the primaries last Tuesday were being found by clerks at election board headquarters as the official count got under way here today.

The largest error found was one shorting Dennis L. Dunlavy, Democratic candidate for the supreme court nomination, 17 votes. The official count gave him 633. His opponent, Frank S. Monnett, still holds a lead of more than 400 votes. Several other errors of less than a half dozen votes were found but none were sufficient to materially change the results of the primaries.

Finish Next Week

The official check of the city vote for seven Democratic state offices in all that has been completed by election board clerks. Official figures on the entire county for all offices will probably not be compiled until next week.

A. W. Kette, secretary of the Marion county board of elections, received three votes for the lieutenant governor nomination.

GIVES ABSOLUTION AS FIVE SINK IN LAKE

Man Only One of Six To Survive Tragedy of Burning Launch

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 17—Blinded by fire, his clothes ablaze, a priest stood on his burning gasoline launch in Lake Lavigne and, crucifix in hand, granted absolution to five others of his faith, and then plunged with them into the water, from which only one was to emerge alive a few minutes later.

The five who were drowned were: The Rev. Fr. J. B. Dubuc, Lavigne, parish priest; Miss Leonie Sylvestre, his sister, of Sturgeon Falls, and Mrs. Albert Lafreniere and her children, Marc, one month old, and Claude, three.

Albert Lafreniere barely had strength to reach a small island after Claude had slipped from his benumbed arms when close to shore. All the bodies, with the exception of Miss Sylvestre, had been recovered today.

HOPPLE AND ANDREWS ABSOLVED OF BLAME

Cleveland, Aug. 17 — William H. Hopple, Tiffin, and Allen Andrews, now deceased, former directors of the Cleveland Discount Co., were absolved of legal responsibility in connection with the failure of the company and the loss of $6,000,000 to the bank assets and stockholders of the concern, by a decision handed down today by the Cuyahoga county court of appeals here.

The ruling was handed down by Judges Louis B. Houck, Mt. Vernon; C. C. Lambert, New Philadelphia, and H. W. Lloyd of Toledo, who were assigned to preside in the case in this appellate district.

GRAHAM HUNT CONTINUES TO LEAD LOCHER

Definite Figures Not Announced; Margin Believed About 500 Votes

FIND LIMA ERROR

Favors Cincinnatian After Cuyahoga Loss; Cooper's Lead Is 5,409

Columbus, Aug. 17—That Attorney Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati liberal, continued to lead U. S. Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland dry, in the contest for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, short term, by a close margin was the announcement made this afternoon at the offices of Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown. Definite figures in support of this assertion were not announced.

It was stated that the result of the Hunt-Locher race would not be given out until the tabulation of full unofficial returns is completed. Hunt's lead apparently is about 500 over Locher with the count for each being about 100,000, though each recount changes the previous figures.

Although election officials and assistants at the secretary of state's office have been working on this tabulation all day, indications this afternoon were that complete figures on the results of the various contests for state officers will not be announced before tonight or tomorrow.

Cooper's Lead 5,409

Early this afternoon Cooper had a lead over Begg of 5,409 votes in the race for the Republican nomination for

BEGG PROMISES COOPER SUPPORT

Columbus, Aug. 17—Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, this afternoon conceded his defeat and sent a congratulatory message to Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, winner of the contest for the Republican nomination for governor.

Announcement was made at Begg headquarters that Begg sent the following telegram to Cooper at Cincinnati:

"Congratulations upon your victory. I made as hard and clean a fight as I knew how to make and have no regrets. In keeping with my promise to the public, I am ready to join you in working for the success of the Republican party this fall."

governor, according to a revised tabulation at the secretary of state's office. Complete unofficial returns gave Cooper 257,367 and Begg 251,958 votes, it was stated.

With 16 precincts missing, State Representative John T. Brown, Mechanicsburg, held a lead of 2,635 votes over George C. Braden, Warren, for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor for the full term.

Senator Locher today stood pat on his claim, made late yesterday, that he defeated Hunt.

Yesterday morning Hunt appeared to have defeated Locher by more than 10,000 votes. Then came the announcement from the Cuyahoga county election board at Cleveland of the discovery that Hunt had been erroneously credited with 10,000 votes in that county. This change in the result at Cleveland, together with belated returns from other parts of the state, finally placed Locher in the lead by a margin of less than 500 votes late yesterday.

Forges to Front

Hunt, however, went to the front again when members of the Allen county election board announced last night that an error had been made in tabulating the returns from that county. A correction of this error, it was stated, gave Hunt 520 additional votes.

The original announcement was that Allen county gave Locher 1999 and Hunt 547 votes, it was stated. The corrected totals are: Locher 1999; Hunt, 1067.

"I am receiving reports from private sources in Cuyahoga county and from points throughout the state that other errors have been made in the compilation of the vote," said Locher. "I firmly believe that I was nominated and that I carried Cuyahoga county."

Locher said he would arrange for an investigation of election returns in at least seven counties where, it was stated, he believed errors were made in reporting the returns. He did not indicate which counties are referred to.

HOLD JOINT PICNIC

Prospect Reformed Church Groups Meet at Community Park

Prospect, Aug. 17—The Woman's Missionary and Aid society together with the Girls' guild and the Mission band of the Reformed church, held their annual joint meeting at Community park, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. R. H. Stratton the president, had charge of the program, which opened by singing, "Hark the Voice of Jesus Calling." Members of the Mission band repeated the two Psalms, and sang "Jesus Bids Us Shine." The story of Moses was given by Raymond Lauer and Ruth Fogle gave the poem, "The Burial of Moses." The story of the working girls in China, Japan, and India was given in costume by Florence Solomon, Lucile Thomas and Martha Codding. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. R. H. Stratton, with prayer by the Rev. A. M. Chapin. Radio talks on Japan were given by Mrs. Charles Sechrits and Mrs. Frank Swaney and several letters were read from Mrs. Annetta Winters, of Japan.

Miss Adah Chapin, who will soon take up missionary work in Concord, N. C., told about her work. The women of the Missionary society presented her a gift. The Quiz was conducted by Mrs. W. H. Farnum and with the roll call each member presented a dollar toward the fund for the parish house, and told how they earned it. The meeting was closed by the Mizpah benediction.

After the meeting a picnic supper was enjoyed. The September meeting will be at the home of Mrs. B. P. Swaney.

Guests were Mrs. Hannah Johnson, Mrs. Rose Pix, Mrs. Rudolph Stuckey, Mrs. John Anselman, Miss Adah Chapin, Rev. A. M. Chapin, Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Achtermann, Mrs. Lucy Bondley, Mrs. Lydia Smith, and Mrs. Dan Lauer.

However injudicious novelists may dress it up, the affair they describe as romance is always just a plain scandal in real life; and everybody snubs the participants.

"Uncle Addie" Bain's Toy House at Park Classed as Rival of Santa Claus' Shop

...TIONS in the mythical ... operated by Santa ... hardly be much more ... alluring to youngsters ... Addison Bain's toy ... Lake park.

... vation center for kiddies ... established by "Uncle Addie" is an entirely new feature of the park. Not only is it a source of boundless joy for the smaller boys and girls, but it also is an object of unusual interest for older persons, many of whom are included in the list of daily visitors.

There are toys and amusement devices there which Mr. Bain has accumulated from various sources and in different ways. Some he has bought personally, others have come from the park management and some have been donated by local mercantile firms.

The place serves two purposes—it amuses the little folk and provides parents with an opportunity to enjoy the park amusements and know that their offsprings are safe and having a good time.

In Class of Its Own.

This is perhaps the only playhouse of its kind in this part of the country, and as such has set a precedent. There's everything there, from tiny baby dolls and paper doll cut-outs to shooting galleries. Even the pampered rich child is likely to find something here that he hasn't seen before.

The playthings are arranged conveniently around the walls of the building that was once known as Mr. Bain's office, but which is now "Addie's Toy House." But not for long do the toys remain on the walls when the kiddies get into the house.

Exclamations of glee, chuckles of delight, round-eyed awe, all are seen and heard when the children find this juvenile "gold mine."

The idea had been forming in the mind of Mr. Bain for some time, but it wasn't until this summer that he was able to develop his theory. And his theory is that amused children aren't a bother to parents who want to enjoy the park.

They Don't Protest.

The part about his theory that makes it a fact, is that the children have no objection to this kind of temporary imprisonment—in fact, they'd rather be put in the toy house for several hours than go sparking with their parents.

Practically every afternoon and night there are great numbers of tots and older children enjoying themselves in this room. There are toys for the tiniest tot to the youngster who enjoys puzzles and shooting galleries. Especially are the crowds drawn at night and on the days when picnics and reunions are held.

The room is small, but it contains unlimited comfort for the kiddies. Vines have been planted at the window, and soon the little building will be as attractive on the outside as it is on the inside.

Not only the youngsters enjoy the house, though, for the sight draws exclamations of wonder from parents who take their children there. It is almost unbelievable that so many different kinds of toys could be brought together under one small roof, and that children can play so harmoniously together with only one man to watch them. But then, Addie Bain has always played with children, always loved them, and has always found his greatest pleasure in amusing them.

Ready for Archery.

Along with the theory and with the same thought in mind, an archery set has been purchased. The bull's eye will be set out on the grounds beneath the shade tree and the boys and girls of the city who are too old for playhouses may get some worthwhile target practice here.

The playhouse is growing in possessions, week by week, and its popularity with the younger set has already been vouched for in the wails that go up when it is suggested that they "leave the toys alone, and come home with mother, now."

COMBINED PLANE-BOAT TRIED OUT NEAR BERLIN

Berlin—A combination airplane and motor boat which skips along the surface of the water at a speed that would carry it across the Atlantic in forty hours has been invented by the Ukrainian engineer von Gasenko and is now being tried out on the lakes near Berlin. Its record speed so far has been ninety-five miles an hour.

The boat is driven by an airplane propeller and is steered by an aircraft rudder. Two small wings along the sides keep it stable and the inventor is certain that they would prevent all pitching and rolling even in the roughest sea, preventing sea sickness.

The present boat is merely a trial boat, but a trans-atlantic boat 120 feet long, carrying thirty passengers, is already being built.

ROUMANIAN ARMY MAN PLANS BUCHAREST HOP

Cleveland—A lieutenant of the Rumanian army, George G. Fernic, plans a non-stop flight from New York City to Bucharest, late in September, it was learned here recently at the office of John J. Popovici, Rumanian counsel.

Fernic, it is said, is now awaiting completion of his twin-motored biplane at Mariner's Harbor, N. Y.

"After the construction is completed, we intend to take off as soon as the weather is favorable," Fernic was quoted as saying. "We will reach Europe near the Franco-Spanish border, then fly across Italy and the Mediterranean, along the Danube into Bucharest."

Columbus, Aug. 17—Herbert Madigan, 12-year-old Columbus boy, today will be arraigned before a Franklin county juvenile court to "explain" his spell of excitement which, according to police caused a regular furore in Grandview, a suburb of Columbus, yesterday.

Among the items of "excitement" said to have been confessed by the boy were two emergency ambulance calls; a false fire alarm; a fake taxi call; firing of the grass in a vacant lot; an attempt to set fire to a garage and calling of neighbors on the telephone after he had seen them going upstairs, making them retrace their steps to the lower floor.

Billy Jean Devol, 11, also has been ordered to appear with her playmate Herbert at the hearing today. She is said by police to have been with the boy during part of his pranks.

Auto Crowded Off Road by Hay Bailer and Hits Pole

The injured are Dorothy McIntyre, Zanesville; Eloise Blake and Maxine Moss, both of Cleveland; Jeanne Roberts, Columbus, and Ann Dwyer, London.

The auto in which the girls were riding was said to have been crowded from the road by a hay bailer, crashing into a telephone pole and upsetting in a ditch.

Hoover on Way to Capital to Direct Own Campaign; Will Make All Decisions

Given Warm Sendoff as He Leaves Home at Palo Alto; Trip to Washington Will Take More Than Week; Many Stops Planned by Nominee

Enroute with Hoover to Los Angeles, Aug. 17—Ending a political vacation to take up the serious business of running for the presidency, Herbert Hoover was on his way back to Washington today to direct his own campaign.

The Republican nominee let it be known, as he left his Stanford University home, that he intends to seek the advice of all groups within the Republican party but that on important matters, he will make his own decisions. He has conducted his campaign thus far on that basis and he will continue it on the same lines. He has determined upon a "clean" campaign devoid of personalities and free of demagoguery.

Hover placed a list of specific issues before the people in his acceptance speech. He gave a detailed explanation of his farm relief program and he discussed prohibition at some length. On some other issues, he touched but lightly due to the lack of time. There he will explain at greater length in future speeches but each speech he makes will have some definite purpose in view. He has turned down all suggestions of "barnstorming" tours and expressed a personal preference to make but four set addresses, after his scheduled farm program speech in West Branch, Iowa, on Aug. 21.

Given Warm Sendoff

Hoover announced he would discuss "the relation of our government to public utilities and railways" at some future date. This may be one of the important issues of the campaign as it involves disposition of Muscle Shoals the Boulder Dam project, the so-called "Power trust" now under investigation by the federal trade commission, and the development of many inland waterways. It is the only major issue upon which Hoover has not yet announced a definite policy.

Other subjects which the nominee said he would discuss after getting back east, were the development of waterways and highways, conservation of natural resources, foreign trade and merchant marine, improved administration of the criminal code, aviation and governmental economy. Each of these subjects has its particular following and the candidate has planned to discuss each at some length.

The nominee was given a warm sendoff last night by his neighbors and students at Stanford university. In private conversation, he told some of his friends he hoped to return to California at no distant date.

To Visit Mission City

The candidate's first stop was scheduled for Santa Barbara at 8:15 o'clock this morning. He was to leave his train for a tour of the city, its famous sunken gardens and the mission Santa Barbara, one of the oldest on the west coast. The city, stricken by an earthquake a few years ago, has been rebuilt and the new portions were modelled along Spanish mission lines, making it one of the show places of California.

His schedule called for a stop at Glendale, Calif., around 10:30 o'clock and his arrival in Los Angeles at 1 o'clock this afternoon. After participating in a public reception at the city hall, Hoover will motor to Long Beach to attend the Pacific southwest exposition. He reboards his train there at 5 o'clock and after brief stops at Pasadena and San Bernardino, crosses into Arizona to spend Saturday at the Grand Canyon. He will spend Sunday crossing Arizona and Monday, enroute through Kansas, to reach Kansas City at 8:40 o'clock Monday night.

Hoover plans to breakfast Tuesday morning at his birthplace in West Branch, Ia., where he will speak that night to a farmer's rally. He will spend Wednesday and Thursday in Cedar Rapids, Ia., before continuing his journey back to Washington. Party leaders have arranged a series of farm conferences for him while he is in Cedar Rapids.

Since there is no provision in the California election laws which will permit Mr. Hoover to cast a ballot by mail he will have to return here in November to vote in the presidential contest.

Story of Mormonism

NEWS OF MOVIES IN CINEMA CAPITAL

To Be Done in Films

BY LOUELLA PARSONS
Star Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17—I have always thought some day some film company would present an epic dealing with the history of the Mormons. There are few phases of American history that are any more colorful or interesting than the exodus of these people from Nauvoo, Ill., across the country in wagons. It has remained for the pioneer film company, sponsored and financed in Salt Lake City, to undertake the production of "The Exodus of the New World," a story of the Mormons traveling West under the leadership of Brigham Young.

George Pyfer has written a narrative which includes the crossing of the Snake River with a thousand wagons. All of these adventures are, of course, interesting, but they would come to naught unless there was a heroine, colorful enough to carry the story. Still, they believe they have one in Marie Prevost, who will be starred in this spectacular production.

Marie leaves the end of the week for Salt Lake, accompanied by Ray Johnston, who will direct the production, and other members of the cast. This will be Marie's first separation from Kenneth Harlan since they were reunited after their stormy separation. The company figures it will take two months to make this picture, for, according to all reports, it is to be patterned after "The Covered Wagon."

• • •

WALLACE BEERY, who chafed at the bit and was so unhappy when Paramount made him a slapstick comedian instead of a portrayer of dramatic roles, is being given his way with a vengeance. Wally is to be the leading man in "The Case of Lena Smith," Esther Ralston's next picture. Does Wally care if they star another player? He does not. All he wants is a chance to get away from the pie-throwing, mud-slinging, slapstick nonsense. They tell me he is as happy as a lark an dhe is all enthused over the chance to play in this picture, which is to be directed by Josef von Sternberg. John Loder who only a few days ago, arrived from England with monocle, spats and what-not, will have the juvenile lead.

• • •

WE have had Mexican stars, we have had Italian beauties, we have had Spanish gals and Swedish heroines, but so far as I know, there have been no Greek women in the films. Strange, too, because the Greek type of beauty is considered the most perfect in the world. Our old Greek mythologies speak of the classic features of these women who swayed Plato, Aristotle and a few other boys in the days when philosophers were in vogue. Universal now announces that Elene Aristi, an exotic beauty and a Greek, has been discovered by Carl Laemmele Jr. and put under a long-term contract. It will be interesting to see how she compares with the Mexican girls now so much in vogue in film circles.

• • •

THEY seem to consider it a bit of a triumph over on the Paramount lot that John Bartels of "The Show Off" fame has consented to play a part in "The Canary Murder Case." We have seen Mr. Bartels for so many years as the "Show Off" that it's difficult to think of him in any other role. He plays a fur dealer in this case.

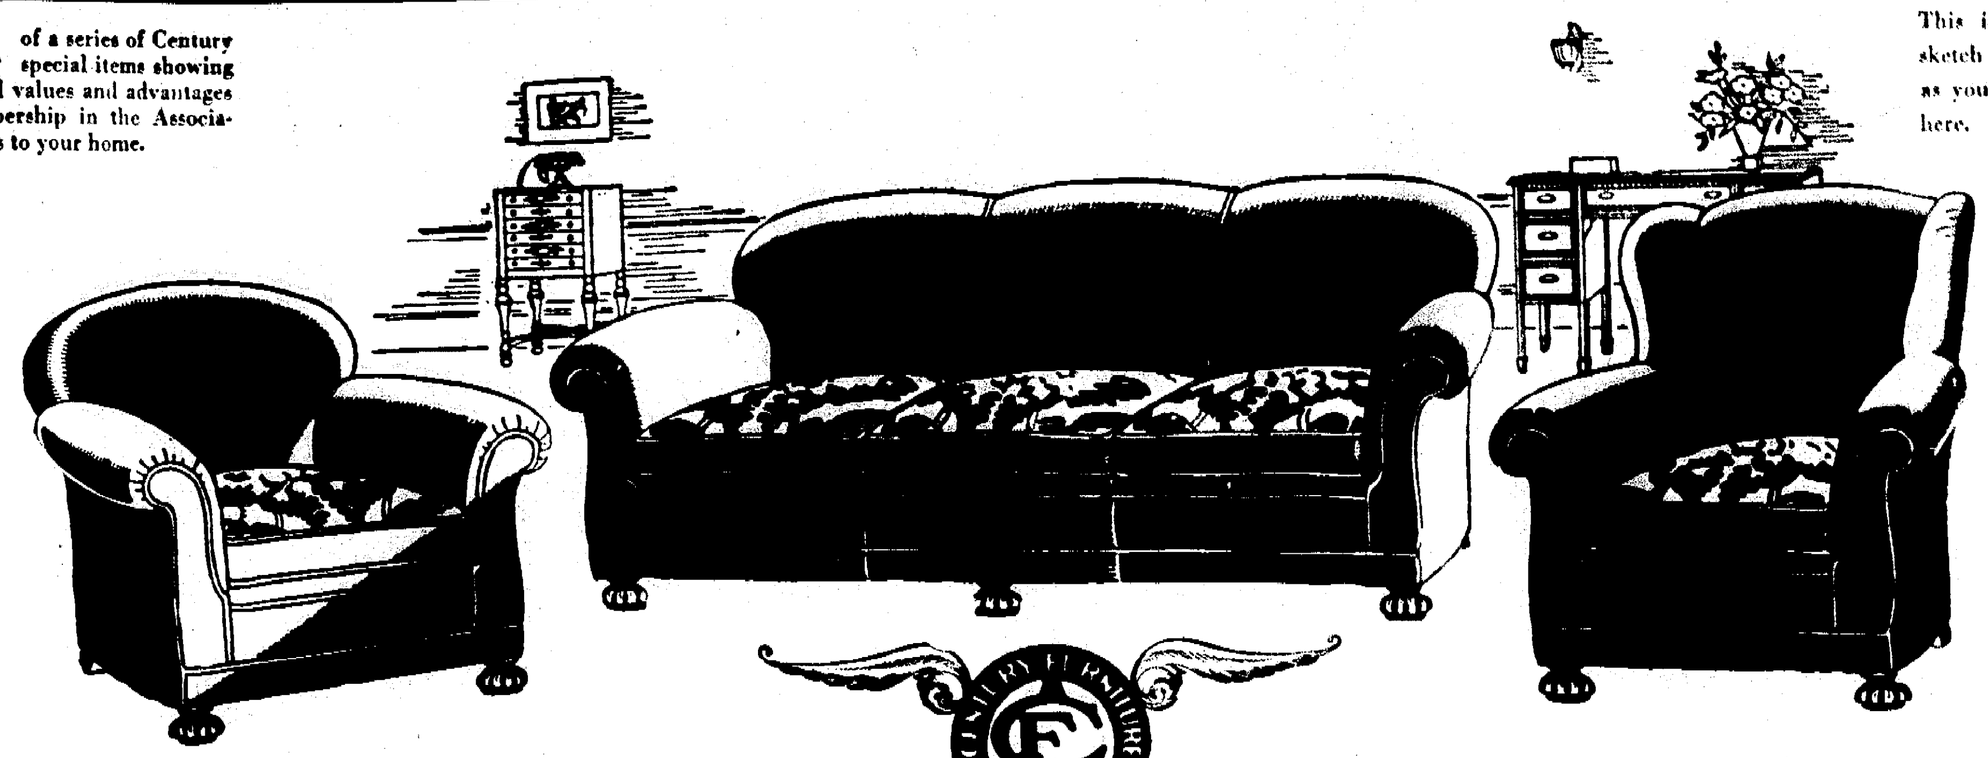
CENTURY WEEK IN THE AUGUST SALE!

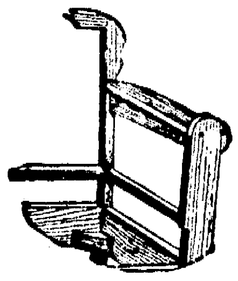
No. 1 of a series of Century special items showing the typical values and advantages our membership in the Association brings to your home.

This is an actual sketch of the suite as you will find it here.



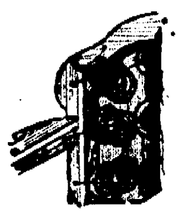
The CENTURY SUITE Brings New Beauty To Your Home!

Here's What We Mean By QUALITY



Hardwood Frames and Full Webbing

A fine piece of furniture must have a good frame, so we specified hardwood for both inner and outer frames to give lasting strength. These frames are securely braced, firmly glued and doweled. Then a heavy burlap webbing is inter-laced and double-tacked to the bottom of the rails—and that means quality.



Deep Coil Spring

We said, "The life of a piece is in the base," so all springs had to be individually sewed, by hand, to the webbing, and corded together, by hand, with Italian hemp spring twine. Then all spring cords had to be double anchored to the rails and a layer of heavy burlap sewed and tacked over them—and that means greater quality.

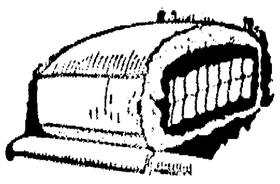
Layer Upon Layer COMFORT

Pure Cotton Felt

New, fresh cotton is generously laid over downy Spanish moss which is thoroughly cleaned and dried. The moss is not merely laid on, but is sewed to the burlap by the upholsterer. These hidden details of construction are worked to perfection under our own rigid specifications—and that means quality.



Inner Spring Cushion Comfort

The center filling of the cushions is of light weight springs, each spring encased on all sides and separated from its neighbor by burlap or canvas to prevent squeaking. Each is corded separately to keep it in position and give the utmost in comfort—and that means greater quality.

Excavators	0	11	.000

The old story of what might have happened if a complete team had been put on the field was retold last night when the Erie Roundhouse and Steam Shovel club tangled in an Industrial league game.

As it was, the Shovels continued to remain in a tie with the C., D. & M. for first place by defeating the railroaders, 7 to 6. The Erie lacked two men of having a complete team. This did not bother the railroaders in the least who gave the Shovels a real run for their money. Observers stated that two additional men would have won the game for the Erie.

The same thing occurred last week when the Christians played the Epworth Juniors. The former team lacked one player and as a result was defeated by one point. If this game had been won, it would have meant a three way tie for first place in Sunday School league No. 2.

C., D. & M. got a lucky break last night when the Osgood team was reported unable to get out enough men to play. The contest was forfeited and the Electrics and Shovels remain tied for first place. The Excavators forfeited to Fairfield.

Hocking Valley lost a hot contest to the Huber nine, 2 to 1. Each team scored one run in the third inning while the Hubers went ahead in the fourth.

Tonight's games will feature contests in the Commercial league. The outstanding game will be the one between the Shovel A. A. and Kappas. The Eagles will win by a forfeit from the Baptists.

GRANGE FAMILY OUT OF ILLINI FOOTBALL

Garland Not To Return This Year; Zuppke Must Find Ends

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 17—The golden regime of the Grange family in football circles at the University of Illinois is over.

Garland Grange, the last of the famous gridiron stars, who upheld the family tradition last year by filling to some extent, at least, the shoes of his famous brother, "Red," is not expected to return to college this fall.

Garland played at end and one of the chief problems this season for Coach Bob Zuppke is going to be the development of wing men. Another end, Bill Short, will be unable to play this season on account of illness.

Look to Peters

The passing of the Grange family and the death of ends, however, will bring into Illinois' battle for glory another beloved by all who follow the orange and blue. He is Frosty Peters, whose drop kick won from Pennsylvania in 1926, was not a candidate for the football squad last year, but he has sent word he intends to compete for a berth this fall.

Peters, who formerly played behind the line, will be given a trial at end and it is said that Zuppke has a decided notion he can turn out a top-notch wing man in the Montana lad.

Out of 28 men who were awarded varsity letters in 1927, 11 have been lost to the 1928 team. These include Bob Reitsch, center; Mitterwallur and Nixon, guards; Marriner, Schultz, Perkins and Grable, tackles; French, quarterback; Stewart, halfback and D'Ambrosia, fullback.

Captain Nowack, Burdick and Gordon, tackles; Richman, center; Crane, McClure and Wietz, guards; Deimling, Wolgast, and Jolley, ends; Stuessy, quarter; Timm, Mills and Walker, halfbacks and Humbert, fullback, are those available from last year's letter men.

Freshmen Candidates

Among freshmen candidates and new players, Roush, a light but speedy guard is outstanding. He played on the freshman squad in 1926 but was ineligible for varsity last season.

Huddleston, a guard candidate, wighing 243 pounds; Langhorst, formerly of Wheaton college, and Bicanich, guards; Liebert, tackle and Schumacher and Ehlert, centers, are considered likely material.

Lewis, May, Clason, Hummer, Muhl and Potter will strive for end berths.

New quarterback material includes Chattin, a freshman pilot last year weighs 175 pounds and has considerable ability with the toe.

Bodman, a 186 pounder, who punts, passes and runs the 100-yards dash in 11 seconds, is being groomed for fullback. Other fullback candidates are Conover, Flood and Robinson.

NATIONAL LOOP FIGHT SHIFTS TO ST. LOUIS WHERE SERIES OPENS

New York Giants and Cards Tangle in Three Crucial Contests

New York, Aug. 17—The hot National league fight centers today in St. Louis, where the league leading Cardinals start a three-game series with the second-place Giants. The New Yorkers must win two of the crucial contests to stay in the race, as they are still 3½ games behind the Red Birds.

Chicago, and not St. Louis has been John McGraw's chief source of woe this year. The Giants have won but two games in the Windy City all season, and captured only one of the three games played with the Cubs this week. Former Giants cost them the other two contests. A hit by Freddy Maguire beat them on Wednesday and yesterday Art Nehf, discarded by McGraw two years ago, had no trouble in registering a 6 to 2 victory over them.

St. Louis also is finding the going rocky. Three Cardinal pitchers—Ethem, Haines and Haid—were given a 9 to 4 shellacking by the lowly Boston Braves yesterday. Big Ed Brandt pitched for Boston and Lance Richbourg drove in six runs in his first three times at bat with a homer, a triple and a double. Heinie Mueller, making his first appearance with the Braves, got two hits against his old club.

The Yanks and the Athletics finally emerged from their batting slumps. Buster Gehrig smacked three doubles while Waite Hoyt was limiting the White Sox to four hits, winning 11 to 1.

The A's nicked three Detroit pitchers for 17 hits and overwhelmed the Tigers 18 to 6, scoring nine runs in the second canto. Simmons, Foxx, McManus and Hargrave hit for the circuit.

Although hit hard, the lion-hearted Burleigh Grimes hung up his twenty-first victory of the season for Pittsburgh, 11 to 6, when the Bucs landed on Brooklyn for five runs in the eighth. Pewee Waner contributed four hits.

The Phillies are stepping out of character on their present western tour. Led by Sothern, who got four hits, they lambasted three Cincinnati hurlers for 22 safeties and swamped the Reds under a 13 to 4 score. Milligan, former Cornell pitcher, hung up his first victory for the Phils.

Four runs in the ninth staked Cleveland to a 10 to 8 win over the Red Sox. Washington smothered the Browns, 7 to 2, in an eight-inning affair.

PLAY TWO

Double Headers Necessary To Complete National Games

New York, Aug. 17—Contenders for the National league pennant must play additional double-headers late next month near the close of the campaign, according to an announcement by President John A. Heydler. The double bills caused by postponed games, are scheduled as follows:

St. Louis vs. New York at New York, Sept. 20.

Cincinnati vs. Boston at Boston, Sept. 19 and 22.

Pittsburgh vs. Brooklyn at Brooklyn, Sept. 27.

BROTHERS TO MEET IN FINAL MATCH OF CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

J. J. and H. W. Hane Slated To Clash Sunday on Local Course

Robert Owens, 15-year-old golf star of the Marion country club, will be out of the finals of a tournament for the first time this season as a result of a victory scored yesterday by H. W. Hane, two up and one to play.

Owens put up a good fight playing his best game of the tournament. The game was played as the semi-final round for the club championship.

The finals of the tournament will be a family affair with H. W. Hane and J. J. Hane playing for the cup. Both were finalists last year with the former winning out.

No Pay Received by American Star for Articles at Wimbledon

HEARING NEXT FRIDAY

"For Pay or Consideration" Fies Status of Will Before U. S. L. T. A.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—It began to look today as though Mr. Will [illegible] not as smart as some people [illegible]. He's smarter.

Will they say, has found a way to [illegible] when he comes up before the executive committee of the U. S. L. T. A. one week from tonight on a man on a limb, the idea seems [illegible].

It understood that he hasn't been [illegible] for the disputed articles at Wimbledon. According to Wallace [illegible], editor of American Lawn [illegible] one of those who drafted the [illegible] rule and a die-hard [illegible] of Will's, he is likely to be very [illegible] not to be paid for them either now or hereafter henceforth.

The rule specifically states that a [illegible], to be a violation, must be [illegible] or consideration."

Received No Pay Abroad

It wouldn't surprise me in the least if Tilden refused to accept money or any other consideration for the articles that are under fire," Merrihew declared. "I know personally that he received neither money nor consideration while he was abroad and I am just as certain that he has accepted neither since his return. I feel I can also say for him that he has no intention of endangering his status by receiving anything at any time for the articles he wrote while abroad."

This statement was confirmed more or less, at the office of Tilden's syndicate, those in charge declaring that they had neither heard from Tilden except for the receipt of the articles he have not communicated with him in any way since he left America.

Can Take Two Courses

Tilden's defense next week thus can take either of two courses or both. He can first make the executive committee prove that the text of his articles was an actual violation of the palyer-writer rule, a matter that seems to be open to reasonable doubt in some many times, if convicted on that count he can calmly inform any who may be interested that the rule couldn't have been violated, either in spirit or in fact, because the articles were written free, gratis and for the straight fun of it.

Call this an invasion if you like; it doesn't alter the fact that the rule is quite clear in the matter of stating that guilt only follows when pay or consideration is involved. In this instance, free writing is much like free love. It just doesn't count.

BY QUIN HALL

AMONG the great herd of beak smashers, you sometimes hear of one they are pleased to refer to as a "master mind."

One doesn't hear this term applied in the realm of fistiana very often because it isn't that sort of an industry. While it takes some brains to go in and wallop an opponent it is a certainty that it does not require the gray matter that is necessary in other walks of life. And so the term of master mind bobs up only occasionally.

There have only been a few smart boxers in the history of the sport. It doesn't take any reasoning power to take a first-rate lacing or to climb through the ropes for a session of pummeling, so when a master mind does hop over the fistic horizon he's quite an oddity—much the same as a new species of animal at the Zoo.

Among the really great ring generals of the past are Mike Gibbons, Packey McFarland, Jim Corbett, Billy DeFoe, Joe Gans, Jack O'Brien, Freddy Welch, Benny Leonard and right now we seem to have one in the person of Dave Shade, a pretty good whittler when it comes to cutting them down in the squared circle.

About three years ago, in a ring at the Polo Grounds in New York, a blond scrapper bobbed and weaved around and finally uncoiled from a crouching stance and socked his much larger opponent one on the chin which toppled him over. It was one of the biggest upsets in pugilistic history. The blond boxer was Dave Shade, from the Pacific Coast. His opponent was Jimmy Slattery, a young man from Buffalo, who had been making a lot of progress along the road to fame.

That scrap introduced a new socker to the East, but it set back a favorite son who had been looked upon as a real comer. Some said Slats had been brought on too fast, but how was anyone to know that the lantern-jawed glove wielder from California carried such a wallop! At least Slattery's handlers didn't look forward to any such finish.

But even then this boy Shade was a master. He had to be, because Slattery was—and still is—a pretty good mechanic himself.

Recently Shade came back from a tour of the West and scored a win over George Courtney, in a ring at the Coney Island Stadium, near New York. Young George, the Oklahoma cowboy, had been busy building up a reputation and had passed a lot of barriers on his road to a championship, but Dave again proved himself an artist and set back another comer.

Shade is a difficult customer for his opponents to cope with. He assumes a low, crouching position and it's a puzzling stance for the boys to solve. He carries a wallop and it seems strange that with all of his ability he has never become a champion. Perhaps he just isn't being given the breaks. That has been responsible before for keeping talent—real talent—out of the throne room and it may be so in Dave's case. He came mighty close to the top, some years ago, when he battled Mickey Walker for the welterweight crown. They're talking about that decision yet.

Most of the so-called master minds of fistiana—the great ring generals of the past—have worn the tin headgear and it will be one of the puzzles of the game if Shade doesn't eventually hammer his way into the purple and ermine of ringcraft.

But then—there are the breaks which must be considered.

THREE BOUTS

Latzo won from Lomski on a foul in Brooklyn recently.

BEING WELL SUPPORTED

Cleveland, Aug. 17—Spencer, 2:05½, the star Lee Tide colt owned by David M. Look of New York, is being fairly well supported in the future book for the $70,000 Hambletonian three-year-old trot to be raced at Syracuse, N. Y., week of Aug. 27. The colt has been working well at the North Randall Grand Circuit track here traveling the last half of a 2:06 mile in 1:00¾. Lon McDonald of Indianapolis dean of big time reinsmen, has him in charge.

"Oil" Smith Picks Winners

BY FRANK G. MENKE

THOSE loud laughs that bump around in the orope originate in the tonsil department of Earl, otherwise "Oil" Smith, the man who has acquired the uncanny knack of being chased off one ball club that isn't going anywhere at all on to the roster of a world series combatant.

If there ever was a bloke who converted a sarcastic tongue, a quick rising temper and seeming misfortune into good luck for himself it's the very same "Oil" of the pugnacious nature and the free swinging fists.

In 1916 when "Oil" was 19 he batted as a "pro" with the Dallas club but they never gave him a chance. The next season he pegged a job with the Tulsa, Okla., combination but after a brief gap of time it struck the manager that "Oil" was too peppery for his club and "Oil" next appeared with the Ardmore, Okla., club. Almost immediately thereafter the league blew up and "Oil" was jobless again.

• • •

JUST about that time an "ivory hunter" was abroad in the Oklahoma regions, and, having nothing else to do to show that he was earning his pay, he signed up "Oil" for the Rochester, N. Y., club. Somebody had told him that "Oil" was quite a lad and "Oil" promptly had told the scout the same thing in the convincing way that ever has been part of "Oil."

"Oil," with Rochester in 1918, proved so conclusively that he was a real catcher that the Giants paid a fancy figure for him and put him to work in 1919.

Smith was with the Giants from 1919 until mid-season of 1923. Thus he had two shares of world series money. Oddly enough, while he was performing for the Giants in a world series—1921 and 1922—they won the blue ribbon classic. Without Smith in 1923 they couldn't turn the trick and surrendered the honors to the Yankees.

"OIL," who was swapped to the Braves in 1923 because he and John McGraw could not hit it off any longer, endured for little more than a season with the Braves because the chieftain of the club got the notion that "Oil" was an unmanageable youth. So the Braves traded him to the Pirates in the middle of 1924.

The Pirates, not having won a pennant for many years, took a look at "Oil," decided he was a "flag-bringer," hooked up in their play and in 1925 they were part and parcel of the world series fray. In 1927, with Smith in the lineup as a good luck omen, they again won the league championship.

This season the Pirate manager scouted on "Oil." It found him a bit too aggressive, too caustic in his remarks and a bit too free with his criticisms. So the Pirate bosses decided to get rid of him and "Oil" was released.

• • •

AT that moment the Cardinals found they needed a catcher. They signed up "Oil." Since then they have gone along in a splendid fashion, outhacked and outplayed their rivals and now are so far out in front that it seems like a copper riveted cinch that they will win the hunting in the Heydler circuit.

So "Oil," who was wafted to the Giant team and had two world series cuts, who was chased to the Pirates and had two more juicy portions, now finds himself as the guy who again was shoved on a world series aggregation.

No one takes more note of these facts than "Oil" who gurgles about it and razzes the managers who chased him into world series money. And "Oil" declareth and sayeth further:

"When I get all through as a catcher—which will be about 55 or 60 years from now—I'm going to hire out as a sort of human horseshoe for teams that want to win flags. 'Have old "Oil" around and win a pennant' will be my slogan. My price will be about $25,000 a year, which isn't much when you consider that I make 'em win flags and that a flag winner is worth about a half million dollars in profit to the owners thereof. Three cheers for 'Oil' the flag-bringer."

EXPECT TWO-MINUTE RACE TIME IN MEET

Grattan Bars Favored To Win $10,000 Stake at Goshen, N. Y.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 17—Another two-minute race mile, an infrequent occurrence on the harness turf, is in prospect when the four pacing whirlwinds, Grattan Bars, the Canadian-Winnipeg, the Illinois gelding; Highland Scott, the New York representative, and Louis Direct, the Georgia hope, clash in the $10,000 2:07 pace at the Grand Circuit meeting here, Aug. 20-23.

Grattan Bars, who already has three $25,000 victories to his credit, boasts the only two miles better than two-minutes this year. He traveled in 1:59½ in each of his successes in the Page Dairy at Toledo and American Derby at Kalamazoo, Mich.

It was Louis Direct who was second in the two-minute mile at Toledo, Winnipeg finished in that notch in the Kalamazoo performance.

Grattan Bars, of course, will rule favorite here. With Winnipeg, Highland Scott and Louis Direct, all of whom have proved they can shade two-minutes, in there to make him step, some keen observers are of the opinion the world pacing race record of 1:58, held by Directum I, is likely to be shattered. The entire quartet appear to be in the best form of their careers.

Winnipeg, Highland Scott and Louis Direct again proved their capabilities to give Grattan Bars a heated battle in recent Orange County warfare at Elmira, N. Y. Winnipeg and Highland Scott registered victories over the half-mile course in 2:01¼ and 2:01 respectively. Louis Direct, who shows to better advantage on a mile track, was second to Winnipeg.

KIDS ARE HAPPY

Kenton Youngsters Get Baseballs Autographed by Babe Ruth

KENTON, Aug. 17—Hearts of many Kenton kiddies have been made happy through the courtesy and thoughtfulness of Herman "Babe" Ruth during the recent Yankee Cleveland Indian series.

Today they are displaying brand new baseballs, personally handled and autographed by the famous "King of Swat," especially for them.

The gifts were brought here by M. Clabaugh, city mail carrier and former star baseball player.

During a Yankee-Indian game which he witnessed, Clabaugh sought out Coach Hartley of the Indians and asked that the "Babe" fix up the balls. Ruth gladly consented and personally secured the balls and autographed them.

ELECTION CONTESTS HOT IN MT. GILEAD

D. H. Richardson Noses Out Merle Ramey in Republican Race for Surveyor

Mt. Gilead, Aug. 17 — Two very heated contests, one in each party, kept Morrow county politicians and those watching the election results on the edge of their seats until the last ballot was tabulated late Wednesday morning.

The Republican interest soon centralized around the surveyor contest in which Merle Ramey and D. H. Richardson were the leading competitors. The totals varied as the different precincts reported, and late in the night, defeat seemed imminent for Richardson who finally won out by 23 votes. In the Democratic ranks the contest was between O. E. Brenneman and B. F. Powell, the former winning by a margin of 77 votes.

Morrow county voters face the following sheets at the election in November, in addition to the state and national tickets:

Republican Ticket

Representatives to general assembly, H. F. Ault; probate judge, Ethel Elder; clerk of courts, T. A. Campbell; sheriff, James P. Stickle; commissioner, two to be elected, H. C. Harris, Ray Curl; county treasurer, C. G. Shambaugh; county surveyor, D. H. Richardson; prosecuting attorney, P. L. Myers.

Democratic Ticket

Representative to the general assembly, O. E. Brenneman; probate judge, J. P. Bennett; clerk of courts, Paul D. Fleming; sheriff, C. E. Miller; county commissioner, two to be elected, T. C. Moore, Henry Lepp; county treasurer, Alonzo Messmore; county surveyor, Kenneth Graham; prosecuting attorney W. M. Kaufman, coroner T. Carle.

An easy victory in the county for Davey and a close total for Begg and Cooper does not indicate a very one-sided gubernatorial situation in this county in November.

PREPARE TO HARVEST MARSH ONION CRO

Shipments from Kenton District Due To Start About Sept. 1

Kenton, Aug. 17—While the harvesting and shipping of onions from Scioto and Hog Creek marshes, west of here, is not expected to start around Sept. 1 present price quotations on yellows are around $1.50 per hundred pound sacks. Quotations on red onions are somewhat lower.

A bumper crop of late potatoes is expected to be harvested on the marshes this season, an unusually heavy acreage having been planted after the season early in the year. Many truck growers planted potatoes after their onion acreages were destroyed by storms.

Another major crop in the marshlands this year, according to growers is turnips. However, the crop is being considerably damaged by Aphis it was reported. This will have a tendency to decrease the yield.

Although it is impossible at present time to make any definite forecasts, several growers stated that indications now were that the crop this year would be approximately 75 per cent of normal. This means about 500,000 bushels, it was said.

Ritzy Rosalie

ROSALIE seems to be going in strong for elephants, for she has an entire family of them parading across her hat. A late novelty in hat ornaments, which have shown a tendency toward animals of various kinds, is that of a row of white ivory elephants in single file across the front of the hat, each elephant being slightly smaller than the one preceding it.

MOON TOO SMALL

Woman Says Husband Wouldn't Give Her Dime to Look at Sky

Cleveland, Aug. 17—She learned that her husband was rather parsimonious while they were honeymooning in Florida, Mrs. Alice M. Jackson of Lorain, charges in a divorce suit on file in common pleas court here today.

When she asked him for a dime to look through a street corner telescope at the moon, she says, he refused, pointing out that it was only a quarter-moon and that it would be wiser to save the dime and have a peek through the lenses when the moon was full.

The husband, Arthur W. Jackson, reputedly wealthy real estate dealer, of this city, also promised to build a $50,000 home for her, and her two daughters by a former marriage, she says, and has failed to do so.

-o- The New Book -o-

By FRANCES JENNINGS

SEVERAL ultra-modern ideas on marriage and life are expounded by Sir Philip Gibbs in his new book, "The Age of Reason," one of the season's newest novels, from Doubleday, Doran. Gibbs uses the rather unusual personalities of his book to present these far from practical theories.

The characters are a young Englishwoman, daughter of an eminent theologian, and a middle-aged widower, a college professor with a firm belief in "the age of reason," his extremely unconventional daughter and more retiring son, and his aged father, another exponent of the professor's ideas, theories of rejuvenation which bring the elder man to an untimely death.

The Englishwoman, married to the college professor, is the unfortunate victim of the latter's extreme beliefs. Her father is too broad-minded to be seriously concerned, her stepdaughter even more strongly an advocate of the "age of reason" than the professor himself, her stepson, indifferent, and her father-in-law, a willing sacrifice to science. Her artist brother, her unborn child and herself, with her unsteady belief in God and the comfort of a life beyond, are the real unhappy victims.

While the ending is sad, it is not altogether pessimistic, for the reader sympathizes with the heroine in her ideals and shattered religious convictions and feel that it will be her gentle beliefs that will triumph over science-in-the-extreme, in the end.

TWO UNUSUAL BOOKS ON SUMMER LISTS

TWO other quite different novels offered on the midsummer reading lists are Julian Green's "The Closed Garden," a novel of French provincial life and Vina Delmar's "Bad Girl," the outspoken book which was "barred from Boston."

"The Closed Garden" is so far from reality as to be almost beyond the conception and interest of the reader of the usual run of American novels. Andre Maurois sums it up in a sentence: "The subject matter is drab: An hysterical girl, in love with a man to whom she has never spoken, and who will end in madness after having killed her father."

NEW WHORTON NOVEL OUT IN SEPTEMBER

THE Children," the new novel by Edith Wharton, author of "The Age of Innocence," is announced for September publication by Appleton. As with all Mrs. Wharton's nature works its appearance is an event of considerable importance to American letters. Laughter and the warmth of a tender gayety are the dominant qualities of "The Children," but beneath its surface is the question: "What of the children in a world of nonchalant divorce-"

Mrs. Wharton's list of honors is long and distinguished. In 1915, the French government gave her the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The Pulitzer prize of 1921 was awarded to her for "The Age of Innocence." In 1924 she was promoted by the French government to the position of officer of the Legion of Honor and in 1925 she was presented with the gold medal of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. She was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature by Yale university in 1923.

"PIGSTIES WITH SPIRES" IS BOOK OF THE MONTH

SOMEWHERE in the midst of a busy career on the stage and as a wife and mother—a distinguished English actress whose pen-name is Georgina Garry has found time to write a remarkable first novel, called "Pigsties with Spires."

Miss Garry's story concerns a woman, a man who buys her favors, and the woman's daughter by her first husband, an appealing child called Sonia, upon whom the tragedy of her mother's life falls heaviest.

"Pigstes With Spires," a novel in some 500 pages, is an honest book, "strong and frank without giving offense and presenting characters with the unmistakable feeling of reality about them," its publishers say. It has been chosen as the Dutton Book-of-the-Month for August.

Mr. McClure has analyzed her mind, dramatized her emotions, and found her a "lady of marble"—a woman destined for marriage but never to fulfill her destiny.

SNAITH WRITES NOVEL OF UNUSUAL INTEREST

NOT since "The Sailor," has J. C. Snaith written such an engrossing novel as "Surrender," which Appleton has just brought out. From the sands of Africa and three years of torture in the desert, two men emerge with a tremendous friendship. An American and an Englishman, weary and sick of life in the Foreign legion, are carried through the adventures encountered in their escape and in their life together later in the shabby quarters of London.

COLLECTING WEAPONS IS TERHUNE HOBBY

BREEDING prize-winning collies is not Albert Payson Terhune's only hobby. Another of his favorite pastimes is the collecting of antique death-dealing hand weapons from all parts of the world. At his home in New Jersey, the author of "Gray Dawn," "My Friend the Dog," "Water," etc., has one of the world's finest collections of weapons, including Scottish Highland dirks, Hindu thrusting kuttars and Japanese and Chinese hari-kari or suicide swords.

One may have to mow the lawn or keep a white wooly-haired dog white, but no man should be burdened with both tasks.

COSSACK GIRL MAKES PET OF BABY CAMEL

LA BELLE NATASCHA

Natascha is one of the Cossack girls with the 101 Ranch Wild West, coming to Marion, Friday, August 24, and she's quite a problem to the cowboys, who follow her about as does her pet baby camel. Natascha treats all the cowboys exactly alike—friendly and amiable, she is, but never seriously concerned with the "you and I" stuff. It's all fun with her, this trouping, and everybody's just "wonderful," but her petting is for her camel only.

Polly Says It To Gene With Static As He Sails Ocean

ABOARD the S. S. Mauretania at Sea, Aug. 17—"———— (Signed) Polly."

Gene Tunney was happy aboard the Cunard liner Mauretania today as he read and reread a radiogram which ended that war.

It didn't sound like a love message as it was received in staccato dots and dashes in the Mauretania's radio room, but one glance at the ex-heavyweight champion's beaming smile as he read the brief message was enough to assure an onlooker that Miss Mary Josephine (Polly) Lauder, his $2,000,000 fiancee, still loved Gene and had said it with static.

A deluge of flowers, gifts and telegrams greeted Tunney aboard ship. Among the wires was one from Tom Heeney, whom Tunney defeated in his last fight and who married shortly afterwards.

"Having taken the plunge myself," Heeney wired, "I can anticipate the happiness in store for you." The Heeneys sail on their honeymoon today.

Dancer's Husband Directs Attorney To Start Divorce Action

Los Angeles, Aug. 17—Gil Boag and Gilda Gray have come to the forks in the road. Boag is to seek annulment of his marriage to the famed dancer and film actress.

That was the announcement today of Attorney Milton M. Golden, who said he had received a cablegram from Boag, now in Berlin, directing him to institute action in the Los Angeles courts at once.

Attorney Golden stated that the basis of the action would be charges of "pre-nuptial fraud."

FINDS MONSTERS

Head of Bones of One Weighs More Than 400 Pounds

Peking, Aug. 17—Traces of prehistoric animals hitherto unknown to science were found by the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition in the Gobi desert of Mongolia, according to members of the expedition who are here today. In a cabled report to the American museum of natural history, Professor Andrews dwelt upon the tremendous size of some of the animals. Some must have had bodies hundreds of feet long, he said. A fossilized head of one prehistoric monster weighs over 400 pounds.

Confusion of tongues stopped Babel, but it didn't seem to affect New York.

An open mind and an open conntenance are usually found together.

LONDON SHOWS IT'S AT MERCY OF ENEMY

Thousands Watch "Air Attack" High in Clouds Above City

London, Aug. 17—London lies at the mercy of the enemy should a powerful fleet of from 100 to 200 bombing planes be sent against it, according to the lessons drawn today from the four-day airplane maneuvers to test the aerial defenses which came to an end at midnight.

But this presumed helplessness against air raiders from a nation powerful in planes, is only theoretical. One of the chief reasons for the attacks against the city from the sky was to show wherein the defenses should be strengthened. The work of perfecting air defenses through larger sky fleets and more effective counter attacks from high angle guns will be undertaken by the government later.

For hours last night thousands stood in the streets craning their necks to get a glimpse of the "battle" high in the clouds between groups of pursuit planes and "enemy" machines guarding the bombers. It was a thrilling spectacle. Powerful searchlights played upon the planes as they darted back and forth through the clouds. There were many in the crowds who had seen actual air raids during the war and attacks by British planes against raiding German Zeppelins.

How far fighting among men has passed is shown by their assembling by thousands to see a fight.

TOOTS AND CASPER — IS IT A BOX OF TROUBLE? — BY JIMMY MURPHY

GEE! THE PHONE'S RINGING!
DARLING! I LOVE YOU! I MUST SEE YOU! PLEASE LET ME CALL ON YOU EVEN FOR A MOMENT! LET'S MAKE IT DEFINITE, DEAR! MAY I DROP IN NEXT TUESDAY AFTERNOON? PLEASE!
ER-ER-YES, ALL RIGHT! ER-GOOD-BYE!
GOSH, UNCLE EVERETT! WHAT HAVE I DONE? I THOUGHT YOU WERE CASPER COMING INTO THE ROOM, AND I WANTED TO AVOID A SCENE! WHEN MY "SLAVE" ASKED TO DROP IN TUESDAY I SAID "YES" JUST TO GET HER OUT OF THE WAY! I HATES TO BE HOME TUESDAY AND LET HER IN, SO I'D BETTER NOT BE HOME!
THE BIG DATE IS ON! TOOTS ALMOST REGRETS IT, BUT THERE'S NO WAY OF GETTING IN TOUCH WITH HIM TO TELL HIM NOT TO COME!

JERRY ON THE JOB — THERE'S A TIME FOR EVERYTHING — BY JIMMY MURPHY

DEMAND HEAVY FOR HIGH GRADE SHARES

New York Banks Withdraw 40 Millions for Reserve Adjustments

CALL LOAN RATE JUMPS

United States Steel Foremost on Market with Rise to 139¼

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Aug. 17—After reaching a slightly higher level of prices today, the industrial and motor stocks were subjected to profit-taking and the forward movement halted. Stock sales in the forenoon were at the rate of 3,500,000 shares for the full session, and buying of the high grade industrial shares was said to be for the "best people" in the financial world.

The New York banks made their rounds of the call loan market and withdrew about $40,000,000 for their reserve adjustments, forcing the call loan rate to 5 1-2 per cent, western banks and institutions also withdrew from the speculative loan market, and the supply was not as large as yesterday. Anything approximating a five per cent rate is satisfactory to the bullish interests in Wall Street, who are counting on the resumption of the raging bull market in the last four months of the year.

The most impressive feature of the stock market today was the character of its leadership, which included a few of the highest grade stocks on the big board. United States Steel was foremost, with a new rise to 139¼, on a tremendous turnover. American smelting rose an additional five points to 214 and American Can, the other member of the trio, was in its best form above 101. Pools operating in the popular motor stocks whipped up their favorites to new high levels, where the offerings were so heavy that sharp declines immediately took place, adding to the confusion of the market as a whole. The rails participated a little more heavily in the activities of the day, also under the lead of the highest grade dividend paying shares.

Some men seem to have a corner on brains. They are asked to boss everything.

Late Buyers Find Price of Peaches Here Higher Than Early in Season

Marion Market Customers Make Usual Mistake of Putting Off Purchase of Supply for Canning. Dealers Say; Price Reduction Regarded as Unlikely

The seasonable drama in which Marion peach buyers regret that they did not purchase the early variety, was being reenacted on the local produce markets this week.

Following entrance of peaches on the Marion fruit stands a few weeks ago when the supply was plentiful and the price exceedingly low, late customers desiring peaches for canning purposes were given but two alternatives this week.

Price $1 Higher

Customers were given the opportunity of purchasing the peaches this week at approximately $1 higher than they could have been purchased when the season opened or the choice of going without the fruit this year because of the sharp advance noted since the first variety arrived. Local dealers found their hands tied in any effort to offer a better price this week when the demand was reported to be great, and many customers were choosing the latter alternative, rather than pay the price asked.

The unsatisfactory result on the part of the buyers is an annual occurrence, dealers say.

Early Price Lowest

According to the local retailers the best price that ordinarily can be given on peaches during the season is the quotation when the first stock arrives from southern fields. This year the opening season price was set at $1.50, while today a price of $2.50 was being placed on the baskets on the local markets.

That peach customers who will continue to wait until later in the season when the home-grown and northern peaches arrives will not be compensated for their efforts, is the belief of the local dealers. Owing largely to the fact that a decrease in the supply of northern peaches has been reported, the price is not expected to be lowered when that variety is placed on the market.

A small quantity of blackberries appeared on the Marion markets yesterday and were selling at 20 cents a quart today. The berries were obtained from a Columbus wholesale market, dealers say.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Aug. 17—With no great change in crop and export news, price fluctuations in the local grain market were largely of a technical character yesterday. After an easy opening, wheat went lower and then rallied to close with advances of ⅝@1⅜c.

A very nervous tone in the September future kept corn traders active all session. The course of prices was much the same as in wheat, with closing quotations ¼@1⅜c higher. Oats were ⅛@⅛c lower and rye ½@1c higher.

Scattered selling by commission houses and locals at the opening, on unexpected weakness at Liverpool, gave the wheat market a weak appearance and prices declined. Hedging pressure was fairly steady and the market was slow to rally. Trade was moderately active.

About midsession the lower prices attracted enough short covering and new commission house buying to absorb the surplus, and by the close prices had worked moderately higher than the previous day's finish.

Warmer in Canada

Reports from Canada indicated that the warm wave which kept traders sweltering here had warmed the wheat growing country sufficiently to still all fears of frost. Showers are looked for on this side of the boundary.

Harvesting of wheat in the American Northwest is said to be making good progress. Farmers in this territory are disposed, the advices say, to hold back their wheat for higher prices. This appears to be a very different situation than exists in the Southwest, for Kansas City wheat stocks were estimated yesterday at 22,000,000 bu. announced as the largest ever known.

Activity at the seaboard continued rather quiet, with sales in all positions estimated at from 300,000 to 400,000 bu. New York reported that twenty-five steamers of Argentine wheat going to the continent had been diverted to Russia and that four steamers loading at Montreal were destined for the same country. However, the effect of this report appeared to be limited.

The cash wheat market ruled steady both as to prices and basis. While the demand from both milling and elevator interests was called good, offerings were free. Local shipping sales totaled 3,000 bu. and there were sales of 100,000 bu. to go to store. Bookings to arrive aggregated 70,000 bu.

Corn Futures Active

For several days the corn market has been a rather nervous affair, with the trade inclined to wait for further developments. Yesterday the September future started the session with a sharp decline, but later rallied and went substantially higher on buying by shorts and commission houses.

There was some scattered selling on reports of rain in some of the states where there have been recent fears of drought. This was counteracted by short covering and the deferred futures sympathized in sympathy with September.

Some of the strength of corn was no doubt due to Broomhall's review, pointing out that while the wheat and other crops in Europe were average or better, the corn crop would again be short. After last season's experience with a potential heavy demand for corn from Europe, the trade is a little reluctant to act quickly on this factor.

Cash offerings of corn hightened somewhat with a fair commercial demand, prices ruled ½@⅝c higher with the basis firmly held. Local shipping sales, 46,000 bu.

SENTENCED AGAIN

Perry Convict Has 10-Year Term Tacked on for Manslaughter

Columbus, Aug. 17—Fred Kellogg, Perry county convict serving time for carrying concealed weapons, was back in the penitentiary here today facing an additional indefinite setece, minimum 10 years, for manslaughter imposed on him yesterday by Judge N. Craig McBride, Hillsboro, at New Lexington, O.

Kellogg was convicted for his part in the death of Grant Weakley, penitentiary guard, which occurred in a dentist's office at New Lexington a year ago when Kellogg and Patrick Riley, another prisoner, attempted to escape. The two men at the time of the slaying had been working in a brick yard at Junction City and had been taken to New Lexington for dental work.

Weakley was killed when the pair made the futile escape attempt. Riley was sentenced to life imprisonment a short time ago on a second degree murder charge for the guard's death.

Judge McBride is sitting on the Perry county common pleas bench by assignment.

SMITH IN CONFERENCE WITH SENATOR WALSH

Expected To Be Last Political Confab Before He Accepts Nomination

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17—Gov. Al. Smith today was to wind up a week of conferences with Democratic dry leaders by having a heart-to-heart talk at the executive mansion with Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

This is excepted to be the last political conference of major political importance which the governor will have before he formally accepts the presidential nomination on the east steps of the state capitol next Wednesday night.

Just as he has done in the last few days with Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels of North Carolina and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, the governor is expected to go over his acceptance speech today with Senator Walsh, particularly as it deals with prohibition.

The governor is understood to have had some straight-from-the-shoulder talks with the southern dry leaders about prohibition, but they all left the executive mansion smiling. Neither the governor nor the southern chiefs would comment on what took place at the conferences, but there was a report that they had urged the nominee not to make prohibition the major issue in the coming campaign.

To become noted, one not only needs a press agent, but to know how to play up to him.

14-Room Dwelling, One of Finest in City, Planned as First on New Boulevard

Brick Colonial Home Designed for Charles H. Isaly To Be Built on Spacious Site in Vernon Heights; Cost Estimated at About $35,000

Plans for a 14-room dwelling to be built in the Vernon Heights addition, and which will rank as one of the largest and most attractive homes in the city of Marion, have been completed for Charles H. Isaly, head of the Isaly Dairy Co., by L. A. Lamoreux, Mansfield architect.

Work on the new home, a brick structure of colonial design expected to cost approximately $35,000, will start in the near future, according to present plans. The site, located on the north side of the Vernon Hights. blvd., extension where it connects with the Harding Memorial blvd., was to be staked out this afternoon.

Bids on the construction work are to be received Monday.

First on New Boulevard

The Isaly home will be the first built on the section of the Vernon Heights blvd. running east and west toward the Harding Memorial. The site, located adjoining the west line of the Vernon Heights addition at the point where the Memorial blvd. ends, has a frontage of 150 feet and depth of 260 feet.

The Isaly home will measure 82.1 by 62.5 feet, the first figure representing the frontage facing south on the boulevard.

It will be of brick veneer and of artistic colonial design with a main entrance in front bordered by four pillars.

There are to be seven rooms on the first floor in addition to hallways. On the second floor there will be seven bedrooms and three bathrooms.

Flooring is to be of clear oak throughout and woodwork will be poplar finish, enameled.

A three-stall garage built as a part of the house is also included in the first floor specifications.

Basement Plans

In the basement, to extend under the entire house, there will be a laundry room, storage room and boiler room. The cistern, providing the home with its soft water supply, is to be dug under the basement.

The section of the Vernon Heights blvd. which the new home will face is to be improved with asphalt paving conforming with the Harding Memorial blvd. The asphalt section of the Vernon Heights blvd. is to extend a distance of 150 feet east. It is to be a double line drive with intersection, making a total of 400 feet of paving.

From the end of the asphalt paving on east the Vernon Heights blvd. is to be constructed of waterbound macadam with probably Tarvia surfacing.

Family Reunions

GARBERSON-McKINSTRY

More than 80 were in attendance when members of the Garberson and McKinstry families held their twenty-fourth annual reunion yesterday at Garfield park.

The oldest member present was John Duncan, of Clinton, Ill., 93 years of age, and the youngest was Miss Elizabeth White, of Pinebrook, N. J., recorded as being seven months old.

The address of welcome was given by Clifford McKinstry, of Peoria, Ill., president of the organization. A picnic dinner was served and the afternoon spent socially.

Officers elected for the coming year were Clifford McKinstry, president; Mrs. J. A. Williams, vice president; and Mrs. Carrie McLaughlin, secretary-treasurer. It was decided to hold the twenty-fifth annual reunion at the same time and at Garfield park, in 1929.

DRAKE-SHARP

Members of the Drake and Sharp families held their fifth annual reunion Sunday at the J. M. Drake home in Byhalia. Fifty-five members were present from Toledo, Columbus, Grand Rapids, Liberty Center, Richwood, West Mansfield, Bellefontaine, Cardington and Marion.

Dr. O. W. Drake, of Grand Rapids, was elected president; J. M. Drake, vice president, Mrs. Anna K. Ross, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Hattie Drake, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Readings were given by Misses Betty and Dorothy Drake and Helen Hammer, and a vocal solo by John Williams. The reunion will be held in the same place at the same time next year.

Pioneer Business Place to Close; Operates 70 Years

ONE of the pioneer stores of the city, the hardware and sheet metal business at 115 South Main st. now operated by John Schneider & Sons, established about 70 years ago, will be closed down within a few weeks.

The hardware business was started about 1858 and since that time the room has never been used for any other purpose. Jacob Fribley was the first owner of the store. Since Fribley's period of ownership the store had been sold several times until it was purchased by John Schneider in 1912.

Buy Out Fribley

Wesley Romoser and C. W. Inskeep, who owned a hardware business a few doors from the Fribley place, bought out Fribley after the first owner had been in business for several years. They moved their stock into the Fribley store and conducted a hardware business there until Inskeep sold his share to Samuel Mahaffey several years later.

The next part owner of the business was J. W. Wren, who bought out Mahaffey. The firm then went under the name of Romoser & Wren. A short time later Wren took complete charge of the store after buying Romoser's share in the business.

Partnership Formed

Wren then took his nephew, William Grove, into partnership with him and after a lengthy period in business he bought out Grove's share and again assumed sole ownership.

Wren was owner of the store when Schneider and F. M. Beverly bought it in 1904. Beverly sold his share to Schneider in 1912.

Following a closing out sale Schneider will locate in the sheet metal business at his home on Forest st.

A good many men would as lief retreat from the field altogether as compromise.

DISPLAYS RELIC

Ancient Stone Plowshare Found by Farmer Near Mt. Gilead

THE days of Ohio pioneers were recalled here today when E. P. Roshon, a farmer living eight miles north of Mt. Gilead, displayed a stone plowshare, presumably used by some of the first white inhabitants of the state.

Mr. Roshon found the stone implement several years ago while working in a field on his farm. It is in a good state of preservation.

Mr. Roshon said today that he had written to Henry Ford, offering to trade the relic for a New Ford sedan. Mr. Ford replied, according to Roshon, that if the stone plow were something that he was interested in he would be willing to give more than a new car for it.

DIGESTION GOOD FOR FIRST TIME IN MANY YEARS

Another Lady Says Konjola Completely Ended Her Stomach Trouble

MISS OCIE LEWIS

"I am free of indigestion for the first time in many years and I owe all my new health to this splendid medicine, Konjola, said Miss Ocie Lewis, Summit Street, Xenia, Ohio.

"I was troubled regularly with indigestion. I could not find a thing to eat that didn't sour and cause large quantities of gas to form. It often felt as if a ball of fire were rising in the pit of my stomach and I suffered constantly with that ailment.

"Then I began taking Konjola and it was the only medicine that helped me. First of all, it regulated the stomach organs so that food did not cause me the big intense suffering it formerly did. Now I want to tell everyone that I can eat whatever is placed before me without having gas pains or indigestion. That burning sensation also disappeared and I am enjoying new health, in every way. I owe it all to Konjola and will indorse it every chance I get."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from certain plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medicinal product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended by Pharmacy, and is also being sold in Iberg in Marion at Strayer & Bird's, all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

Arrest is Made in Drive of County Warden Against Violations of Dog Law

Observance of License Rule and Regulation Requiring Keeping Canines Fastened at Night Demanded by Rhoads; Impounds More Than 300 Stray Mongrels in Year

Herbert Uncapher, Erie st., was given a suspended fine of $10 and costs in municipal court yesterday afternoon on a charge of harboring a dog without a license and permitting the animal to run at large between sundown and sunup. The charges were preferred by Dale Rhoads, county dog warden.

Uncapher was assessed impounding charges by the court.

Many Try Evasion

Rhoads said today that there were many dog owners in the county attempting to "get by" without buying licenses for their dogs. Arrests will follow discovery of all cases of this kind, the warden said.

The state law requires all dog owners to buy license tags and to keep the animals tied during the hours between sunset and sunrise.

During the last year Rhoads has been staging an eradication campaign against unowned mongrel dogs. He has impounded and killed more than 300 in the last 12 months.

Gets Results

Results of his work have been shown in the gradual decrease in the number of sheep killed by dogs. Since the county is required by law to reimburse owners for stock lost in this manner, a stray dog running at large may cost the county large sums of money.

Until last week sheep losses were gradually dropping. Last week however produced the largest loss in more than a year. The loss was boosted when a police dog and a fox terrier killed more than 60 sheep in two Scott township flocks. The sheep were valued at more than $700. Both dogs were killed after the attack.

WHY GO TO COLLEGE?

"My boy is going to learn from the 'School of Experience'—the greatest college in the world."

Have you ever heard fathers talk that way, when someone suggested "college" to them, for their sons? Of course you have for there are parents, even today, who haven't quite wakened up to the importance of giving their children—daughters as well as sons—an adequate education as a "starter" in the battle of life. Fortunately parents of this kind are few, and are becoming fewer every day.

Of course, the "School of Experience" teaches some wonderful lessons. There isn't a succeful man or woman in the world but has had his or her "knocks in this school, and come out the better for them, but all the knocks in the world will not make up for genuine education—the kind that a good Junior College gives. It is not the kind that fills the memory with a to impartin the facts it teaches the to impartin the facts it teaches the student to think. Without any doubt it is the one great central purpose of a college education to stimulate in the student the desire and ability for reflective thinking, to help develop rational judgment; to help build up minds which are liberal, minds which are striving to free themselves from the bondage of prejudice and mere passionate reassertion of preconceptions, minds capable of grappling with the great problems of life when College Halls are left behind. The man who knows the facts, and who has also been taught to think, is the man who will lead others in the march to success.

It is the aim of the Junior College of Urbana University to teach its students to think. Its Faculty has been carefully selected with that object in view. Every member is up-to-the-minute in the advances made in his or her department of learning, and is also keenly interested in encouraging original, practical and constructive thinking on the part of the students. Urbana believes in learning all that is possible in the "School of Experience" but even the lessons in that world-wide "institution" are better understood by the trained mind, and so can be put to better use. Write to the College Office for more information as to why to send that boy or girl of yours to a Junior College this Fall, and why to send him to your nearest Junior College, at Urbana, Ohio.—Adv.

one of the trustees and is thus not entitled to attend their meetings unless invited. He has asked hat he be notified of the next meeting and after conferring with a number of the trustees, says he is convinced that a majority will stand by him in his move to "clean house."

Though not a trustee, Root said he still was a member of and contributor to the league. He said he had only recently learned that his name no longer appeared among the trustees and was unaware when his removal had been accomplished or what had brought it about. His father was a member of the league and his own name has been linked with the organization practically all of his life, Root said.

Officials at Ohio Anti-Saloon league headquarters in Columbus today disclaimed all knowledge of the report that Root and other dry leaders will hold a conference today or tomorrow and discuss plans designed to oust Moore from the superintendency of the league and Dustman as editor of the American Issue.

Warns Middle-Aged Women to Check High Blood Pressure

Thousands of women at the changing time of life are in danger of high blood pressure. It is caused by poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system or the weakening of one or more organs. This forces the heart to do more work and raises blood pressure.

The symptoms are dizziness, shortness of breath, head pains, flushed face, nervousness or sleeplessness. High blood pressure must be treated and stopped for everyone knows it brings on Bright's disease, apoplexy, and often sudden death. It is too dangerous and quick acting to go without heeding its symptoms.

Norma is a doctor's prescription for high blood pressure that has been used with great success.

Being a purely vegetable medicine Norma contains no habit forming drugs, and works in such a way that it lessens the duty of the overtaxed heart and reduces blood pressure quickly and safely. Often one bottle brings great relief. Get a bottle of Norma, take it as directed and free yourself of the dangers of high blood pressure—dizziness

WOUNDED WOMAN IS VICTIM OF GAS FIRE

Believe Body That of Gang Leader's Sweetheart; Burned Alive

Crown Point, Ind., Aug. 17—Shot through the face and then burned alive, the body of a young woman, apparently about 25 years old, reposed in an undertaking establishment here today.

All attempts to identify her have failed.

Police first believed the body was that of Adelme Zaccard, alleged sweetheart of Angelo Francisco, who was shot to death in an automobile near Mount Prospect, Ill., yesterday. Francisco was believed to have participated in the West McHenry, Ill., bank robbery on Monday and to have been killed by town guards who answered the alarm.

The police theory was that Miss Zaccard had been "taken for a ride" by members of the slain Francisco's gang to seal her lips against betrayal of the other four bank robbers.

But last night, four members of Miss Zaccard's family, including her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Zaccard, viewed the body, failed to recognize the victim.

The woman had been shot through the jaw, but a coroner's physician declared the wound would not have caused death. It is believed while she was still unconscious her captors poured gasoline over her clothing and set her afire.

Wall Street Hears of Plan To Establish $50,000,000 Capital Bank

culties of its execution seemed insurmountable until the idea of launching a new bank was suggested.

Should the bank be organized with a capital of $50,000,000 it would make financial history as the largest original capital of any American bank. A number of banks have larger capital investments, but they represent mergers and the pyramiding of years of profits rather than merely the original nest egg.

Doubt Soundness of Plan

"There has been some informal discussion concerning the organization of a large new bank," Fiske said. "No sum has been decided upon as the capital and surplus, although it is felt that if organized it should be of very substantial size."

Financial circles do not question the ability of Governor Smith's friends to get together $50,000,000 capital in short order once the plan is definitely approved. There is doubt, however, among practical politicians of both parties, as to the political soundness of the idea. One important Democratic leader, for example, pointed out that while he knew nothing of the project, it appeared in the abstract to be unwise, for the reason that it would represent Democratic assent to the oft-repeated Republican contention that additional credit is the farmer's salvation.

Raskob declined to say whether the project had been presented to Governor Smith for his personal consideration.

RAIN PROMISED

Showers Scheduled to Arrive Tonight, Weatherman States

Unless the showers predicted for tonight arrive before sundown, today promises to be as hot or hotter than yesterday, when the mercury went to 87. While the thermometer at noon yesterday registered 83 degrees, an 84-degree high was recorded at noon today.

Showers, first predicted for yesterday, are scheduled to arrive tonight, according to the latest forecast. Although no rain fell the temperature became cooler towards evening yesterday and dropped to 63 degrees in the night.

A year ago on the same date a 77-degree high and 59 degree low was recorded here.

RITZY DRINKERS

Exposure May Follow Arrest of Liner's Steward

New York, Aug. 17—Some of Park avenue's ritziest drinkers faced exposure today in the United States commissioner's court, where the steward of the Munson liner Western World was to be arraigned on charges of violating the Volstead act. The names of these drinkers were found in a memorandum book hidden under a mattresses, which led to the discovery of one of the choicest and most expensive, if not the largest caches of liquor seized for a long time.

WORKMEN START STREET WIDENING

Will Add to Width of Orchard st. at Hotel Harding; Other Changes Planned

Workmen began carrying out plans for moving back the curb for the purpose of widening Orchard st., near Center st., this morning.

The widening work is taking place on the east side of the street next to the Hotel Harding and will extend as far south as the side entrance of the hotel.

A projection from the street leading to the side entrance of the hotel was constructed when the hotel was built several years ago. The curb being set back today will even up the street from the side entrance to West Center st.

Work at the present time, according to city officials, will be confined to that section of the street. Plans for widening the entire street are under way, officials state, but legislation by city council will be necessary before the work can be continued.

Rounding of the corners of Orchard st. leading to Center st., will be done on both of the east and west sides. This work will be done before the resurfacing of the south side of West Center st., is completed.

"NOTHING TO SAY," UNION MAN REPORTS

Miners and Operators Get Together on New Wage Scale in Ohio

Columbus, Aug. 17—"Nothing to say." This was the terse comment of George W. Savage, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio district No. 6, U. M. W. A., as he emerged today from the union headquarters here where nine representatives of the miners headed by President Lee Hall and eight Ohio coal operators, constituting a sub committee are in session with the negotiation of a new wage scale as their object.

Several proposed scales were considered by the sub-committee last night after an all-day session yesterday, and the committee's report was to be submitted to the full session of operators and mine officials some time today, it was said.

While union officials seemed to be of the opinion that yesterday's sessions showed "considerable progress" in settling the differences of the two groups, some of the operators indicated that little had been accomplished.

Durham, N. H., Aug. 17—What is believed to be the first rolling pin throwing contest ever held in the east was to be staged today under the auspices of the University of New Hampshire in connection with the farm and home week celebration.

The target of the rolling pins is a life-size dummy of a husband and the contestants are 20 women trained by Miss Ann Beggs of the home economics department of the university. Many entrants are unmarried.

RELIGIOUS DEBATE STIRS INSTITUTE

Unitarian Minister Assails Catholicity of Smith; Publisher Hits at Bigotry

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 17—A debate over religion in politics put new fire today in the usually decorous proceedings of the University of Virginia's annual institute of public affairs.

The argument grew so warm that listeners either applauded or booed the various statements made by the participants.

The Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach of Boston, a Unitarian minister and editor of the Christian Register, touched off the fireworks with an attack on the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith. He said a Catholic should not be elected president, and exhorted the people not to hide behind the prohibition issue to cover their views on the religious question.

Several persons replied to Dieffenbach.

I am going to vote for Governor Smith to show that his country is big enough not to be dictated to by bigotry," said John S. Bryan, Richmond publisher.

"If the political persons carry the south against Smith they will set back the spirit of liberty and educational development of the south for years," retorted Prof. John H. Latane of Johns Hopkins university.

To quiet the demonstrations that threatened to disrupt the meeting, Victor Rosewater, chairman, abruptly haled debate on the question after he had first limited the time of each speaker.

Ashley Heights, five miles east of Southern Pines, was being cleared of debris as the result of a tornado which struck it yesterday, killing two and injuring a score when their homes were blown down. The tornado was accompanied by rain which reached the proportions of a cloudburst and much damage was done to crops, especially the peach orchards.

Lake Dam Washed Away

The dam at Lake Kanuga, the summer assembly grounds of Episcopalians, was washed away, causing heavy property loss.

Damage to highways was reported to be severe. One section of a roadway, three miles in length, was washed away, while another was under six feet of water. Waters of the French Broad river stood several feet deep on the highway near Marshall and all roads in that section were impassable.

Damage to crops in western Carolina counties was said to be very heavy. Burke county was perhaps hardest hit, the crops being damaged to the extent of $250,000, according to an estimate of County Farm Agent Sloane. All streams in Burke county were out of their banks and flooding the lowlands.

As we understand it, Candidate Davey's slogan will be "Reforestation Till It Hurts!"

Apropos of that famous letter, it may be pointed out that the Democratic voters did their best to gratify Senator Locher's expressed preference.

The New York Telephone company has revived a discarded practice with a slight variation. It now gives the correct time to a patron—for a nickel.

Two robbers hold up a local restaurant. We must have been picking up population more rapidly than generally assumed thus to be putting on big city airs.

It begins to look as though those who are planning to take sails on Lake Erie would do well to provide themselves with armored boats and observe the utmost care in keeping under cover.

We will not say that Tuesday's primary demonstrated that Governor Smith will not carry Ohio next November, as some hold, but it showed beyond all question of doubt that the drys are right up on their toes and going mighty strong.

Crestline might reasonably become a trifle chesty over the new yards placed in operation there this week by the Pennsylvania company. It is not every place the size of Crestline which can boast $2,000,000 railroad yards.

"Brother" Charles W. Bryan has pledged his support to Candidate Smith, which brings to light another unfortunate phase of presidential campaigns; they bring back into the publicity limelight so many political dead ones.

When the engine dropped out of the plane of a Hoosier flier at a height of 2,000 feet, a Kokomo wire tells us, he landed safely in a field of corn nine feet high, which goes to show that the state's crops are all right even though pretty much everything else in it may be to the bad.

Dropping 15,000 feet in an attempt to break the world's parachute record, Aviator W. F. Scott, of the navy, was driven by a high wind over Washington and left dangling in the air until rescued by a policeman, his parachute having collapsed after catching on to the ledge of the roof of an apartment house. Either more care should be exercised in constructing apartment houses or aviators with an ambition to break world records should go further afield in making their attempts.

Ridiculing the revised law concerning mobilization of the entire Russian population in the event of war, some of the Moscow papers are making slighting references to the "bureaucrats now sitting in government jobs." Even Russia seems to be sickening of "liberty and equality" as construed by the bolsheviki.

A Paris paper charges that the United States passport of Harry Blackmer, the missing witness in the Teapot Dome case the government is seeking to extradite, was stolen from him six months ago by a United States vice consul, who boarded a train on which Blackmer was traveling and secured the passport by holding himself out as a French secret service officer and demanded Blackmer's identification papers. If the story is true, our vice consuls over in France can hardly hope to cement pleasant relations between this country and France by impersonating officials of the latter.

Taking a Grave Chance.

The bolshevik rulers of soviet Russia have taken many chances in infringing upon the personal liberty of the Russian people and succeeded in getting away with them, but none equal in possibilities for trouble to that run by the promulgation of their latest decree, Order, No. 722, issued by the central council of the Young Communist organization after long and serious consideration, against kissing. The order absolutely forbids all forms of kissing as a survival of the aristocratic past and unfit for a "society of class-conscious workers and peasants."

The order affects the young men of the land and their sweethearts or any other girl they may desire to kiss who might prove willing. It applies to husbands and wives, to fathers and daughters and to mothers and sons. Any attempt of a young communist to kiss his best girl is to be taken by her as an insult, as compliance would degrade her as the possessor of aristocratic instincts and tendencies.

One never can tell. It may be that all Russia has become so cowed by years of oppression and violence, that it will remain supine under the order, but if youth is youth the world over and in all climes as has been held out, it's about time for something to break loose over in Russia.

Were a like decree promulgated over here, it wouldn't be fifteen seconds till the explosion occurred.

Germany Launches Two Big Liners.

The launching of two great 46,000-ton fast liners, the Europa at Hamburg by Ambassador Jacob G. Schurman and the Bremen at Bremen by President von Hindenburg, made the present week an epochal one in the history of the German merchant marine, and nothing like such enthusiasm as that reported to have been shown over the two launchings has been manifested in German marine circles since the launching of the Vaterland, now the Leviathan of the United States lines.

For ten years Germany has been restricted in her shipbuilding by the terms of the Versailles treaty. The two launchings mark the expiration of her obligation and signalize her bid to regain the proud place she once held in the shipping world. Up to the present, the 32,354-ton Columbus, an eight-day boat, was the largest addition Germany has made to her merchant fleet since the World war.

Each of the two new liners, which are of equal size and tonnage, is capable of carrying 3,200 passengers. Equipped with four propellers and splendidly powered, it is expected that they will be able to make the run between Bremen and New York in six days when they are put into service next spring, which means that they are of high speed as the distance from New York to Bremen is 580 miles greater than the distance from New York to Cherbourg and 463 miles greater than the run to Southampton, either of the latter two runs taking six days on the big boats.

The manner in which the North German Lloyd line has come back during the German reconstruction period has been the wonder of the shipping world. With these new liners added, which will increase its tonnage almost 100,000 tons, its future strides toward the recovery of the position it once held in world shipping will probably be even more marked, and it is not at all unlikely that the next few years will see still other giant units added to its fleet.

Reports from Berlin say that the press of Germany regards the prominent part taken by the American ambassador in the launching of the Europa as "a particularly happy augury." Certainly the press of the United States should take this evidence of restored friendship between one-time friendly governments, which later became enemies, in the same light.

A nineteen-year-old German youth has broken all gliding records by remaining in the air eight hours and seven minutes. That's a lot like stealing the stuff of the birds.

Telling Governor Smith that Dixie is anxiously awaiting his acceptance speech, former Secretary of the Navy Daniels warns him "to beware of the dry South." It is evident that Josephus leans to the view that the rule which governs the spots of the leopard in no way applies to the stripes of the tiger.

To Honor Dr. McMurray.

We do not pretend to know the measure of the honor attaching to the position of lieutenant governor of the Third district of the state organization of the Kiwanians, for the elevation of Dr. James W. McMurray to which local members of the order have launched a campaign, but we do know that, whatever may be the honor, the doctor is worthy of it if faithful and able effort for the good of the organization and the things for which it stands are to be reckoned.

From the time of the organization of the local club up to the present, Dr. McMuray has been an enthusiastic worker and been prominent in the various movements and enterprises it has launched for the good of the community, in most of which he has been a leader, if not the leader. To give him official position in a district of eleven counties, as proposed, would show recognition of the fine service he has rendered the organization.

Mrs. Lilliendahl and Willis Beach having served nine months of the ten-year sentences given them for the murder of the husband of the former, the aged New Jersey doctor, are seeking pardons, probably figuring that they have served as long as the average prisoner committed on a ten-year sentence does time in this day and age of executive clemency and pardon boards.

While the story that Mary Garden is soon to marry Pierre Plessis, a French journalist, has not been confirmed, it's a significant fact that Mary has been threatening to take the desperate step for the last twenty-five or thirty years.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, has again identified himself with the Democratic party and at present is engaged in the "assailing" of Candidate Hoover for the appointment of Roy O. West, by President Coolidge, as his successor as secretary of the interior. Bertie is certainly the land's busiest little "assailer," but he sometimes, as at present, has to make mighty long and intricate connections to stage his stunts.

Having been misinformed in regard to the breaking of an ice dam which impounds a lake of water nine miles long above the Indus valley, the correspondents over there can hardly be blamed for referring to the death and destruction which would have been wrought had the dam broken.

Mr. Warner's Reelection.

Mr. Fred W. Warner has reason to be proud over the manner of his reelection by the Republicans of the Eighth congressional district to memebership on his party's state central committee. Not only did he carry all the counties of the district save Hardin, the home county of his opponent, but he carried the district by almost a two-to-one vote.

One might conceive a situation where such a vote would mean little in the way of credit, but in the present case, in which he was opposed by a man of splendid worth and high standing in the district party, the vote given Mr. Warner can hardly be construed as other than one of high confidence; as a vote of approval not only of his work as a member of the committee, but also of its direction as chairman.

THERE'S LITTLE ROMANCE LEFT IN POLITICS.

To Battle Typhoid Fever.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Certain diseases are always more or less prevalent. One of these is typhoid fever, sometimes called "Autumnal fever" because it is more often seen in the fall of the year.

This is an infectious disease and one in which the symptoms are so varied that no two cases appear alike. One may have very few symptoms, perhaps only fever and tenderness of the abdomen. Another case may have these symptoms and, in addition, involvement of other organs.

It has been shown that typhoid fever was the cause of more deaths in the army during all wars till the last one, than were produced by any other cause, even shot. Fortunately, these striking statistics ended before the World war.

Just as vaccines have proven so valuable in many other diseases, in typhoid the results have been so marked that the disease is seldom encountered after inoculation. The vaccination is a harmless procedure.

Typhoid fever is caused by the "bacillus typhosus." This germ gains entrance to the body through water, milk and other food. Flies may carry the germs to food or drink.

There were old time epidemics where every family in a town had victims of typhoid through the use of impure water. Milk and oysters are among the most common carriers of the typhosus bacillus.

Typhoid carriers are another source of infection. Certain persons having had typhoid carry these germs in their bodies for years. The excreta containing these germs may be the source of infection of many other workers.

The period of incubation in this disease is from eight to fourteen days. As a rule the onset is gradual. There may first be headache, then abdominal pain, constipation, fever, chills, eruption on the abdomen and many other symptoms.

Whatever the symptoms, if there is reason to believe the trouble is typhoid fever, the patient should be put to bed and kept quiet. A case which might otherwise have been slight has often proved extremely severe because this precaution was not observed.

After many years study of this disease doctors have found that medicine is not the most important thing in treating typhoid. Careful nursing, proper diet and general care will bring the average case to complete recovery without mishap, and the same time, protect others against it.

The diet should consist of milk, broth, jellies, coddled eggs and such other things as the doctor advises for the individual case. Great care of the patient is essential. Frequent baths and cool sponges, care of the mouth and a freshly made bed will promote the comfort.

The excetra should be disinfected. All bedding and personal linen should be kept separate, disinfected and then washed. There need be no fear of other cases of typhoid fever if these suggestions are followed.

Editorial Opinion.

YEA, A DANIEL.

Pausing at St. Paul on his leisurely return from a current holiday, our mayor's great heart went out to the farmers of America. From his train window he had seen farms; they had been pointed out to him. The corn had been identified, and its height analyzed; other crops had been made familiar to "Broadway's Ambassador to Everywhere," and by the time St. Paul was reached and skilled cartographers had shown the mayor just where he was, the farm problem had taken domination of his mind.

"Does New York want farm relief?" the reporter asked him. A less alert man than our mayor might have been trapped there. But unhesitatingly the sensational reply came: "It does." One can visualize the farm faculty of the train standing by and hoping that Mr. Walker at this point would reveal the agricultural lore he had learned fifty miles back, as his car thundered through Anoka. Nor did he fail them. Instantly he entered upon an analysis of the farm problem that for penceful penetration exceeds anything the Germans ever did in South America. He said that New York understands its dependence on the farmers. As for relief, "any kind of relief they want; they are more familiar with their own needs than we of the city; we want to give them what they need."

St. Paul reporters are fearless men, used to shock, surprise and alarm, but when these remarkable thoughts came from the lips of the solemn mayor, they broke their pencil points in frantic haste to preserve them in all their wisdom. Mechanicians leaped to their posts in order to diffuse over countless radios and wires this beam of economic thought. In distant cities men were soon to glow with pride that New York had produced another John Stuart Mill, and on the broad farms of the land unequalized agrarians were to hail through bearded lips the name of Walker.—New York Times.

AMERICA AT THE OLYMPIAD.

With the 1928 Olympiad officially consigned to history, it should be possible for athletic enthusiasts in this country to survey the outcome dispassionately. After the occasion had provoked no end of apprehension and controversy, the United States carried away twenty-two first prizes, or more than the next two nations, Germany, eleven, and Finland, eight, combined.

There were upsets, to be sure, such as the failure of American track men to win as many events as they had hoped to win, and American boxers, owing partly to faulty refereeship, came away without a single championship. But aside from disappointments, and in addition to the prizes won, the American contingent is leaving Amsterdam with the admiration and good will of all the other participants. As at Olympic contests in former years, occasional breaches of sportsmanly etiquet occurred this year, but the Americans throughout behaved as sportsmen should behave in an international competition of this character.

As for the failures, the rules of true sportsmanship require that responsibility be sought at home first, before an attempt is made to put the blame elsewhere. The matter is one which merits attention on the part of those who have the future of American athletics at heart. Already voices are being raised against a system which is alleged to permit too much control of athletics to fall into the hands of a small organized coterie of autocrats, with headquarters in the East, while other athletic organizations, far more representative of the Middle West and West, have next to no say in matters as vital as training and the selection of coaches. The charge has been made that the track failures at Amsterdam were due to these conditions. If the facts after calm study support the allegation, the critics of the so-called eastern hegemony will have a strong case in their appeal for a change.—Detroit Free Press.

Curbing the Earth.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"The earth, as you state, would fall toward the sun but for its cross motion. Now, the sun has attraction and attraction offers resistance in any way, then, don't the earth's motions, whatever they are, come gradually to a standstill, as a wheel suspended in mid-air, revolving around its axis, gradually comes to rest by the resistance of gravitation regardless of any other resistance?—H. H., Weehawken."

The proper measure of the attraction of gravitation is the acceleration; i. e., the increase of velocity that it produces in a given time. In the case of the earth this amounts to about thirty-two feet per-second-per-second; that is, thirty-two feet are added to the velocity during each successive second. In order to know at what speed a body is falling it is only necessary to multiply thirty-two feet by the number of seconds elapsed since the fall begah. A body that has been falling 100 seconds will at the end of that time—neglecting the effect of air resistance—be moving at the rate of 3,200 feet per second.

The acceleration of gravitation, however, diminishes with increase of distance from the attracting body. Thus a body starting from the distance of the moon—about 240,000 miles—would have an acceleration of only about one-tenth of an inch. But this would increase as the body approached the earth.

The same law applies to the sun's attraction upon the earth. Owing to the great distance of the sun the acceleration that it produces upon the earth is less than a quarter of an inch. Now, this is the measure of the sun's gravitational attraction upon the earth, and its effect is not to "resist" the earth's "cross motion," but to change its direction at each instant from a direct, or tangential line to a curved line forming its orbit around the sun. The distance that the earth is drawn toward the sun in one second is half the acceleration, i. e., less than an eighth of an inch, and this is found by taking into account the size of the earth's orbit, to be just the amount of deviation required to turn the motion from a direct line into the closed curve around the sun that the earth actually pursues.

Just how the earth started its motion we do not know, but its revolution around the sun being once established the only force acting upon it is this accelerating force of the sun's attraction. Since the earth travels through empty space it encounters no resistance; therefore, after it was once in motion no force would be required to keep it moving, if it were not attracted by the sun. The effect of the sun's attraction, as just stated, is to bend its motion from a straight line into a curve, and this force must be constantly applied, for otherwise the earth would pass away on a tangent line, and so recede from the sun. The acceleration of the sun's gravity counter balances this tendency of the earth to follow a straight line.

A wheel rotating in open air, as you describe, is arrested by friction—of the air and the axle—but not by the earth's attraction. Free the wheel completely from friction and it would continue to revolve indefinitely.—Copyright, 1928, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

A Passport to Heaven.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The superstition runs that the Berber, the inhabitant of Morocco, will be drawn up to heaven by a lock of his hair. Accordingly he shaves his head except in the center, where it is permitted to grow long. This lock of hair is his "passport to heaven."

They wear small, black-pointed beards, this beard being a most treasured possession. I hardly think a Berber would dare appear in public should he suffer the loss of his Van Dyke. The humiliation, to him, would be unbearable.

The Berbers, then, are extremely picturesque. They wear loose, flowing "djellabas" of woven homespun, usually of a rich cream color. On their heads are strips of the material wound in turban fashion. On their feet are heelless slippers of lemon-colored leather. They are a swarthy people, with flat features and small, black eyes.

Most of these people are shepherds. They seem to "have a way" with sheep, for unlike most herders they do not drive their flocks. They call to their herds as they might call to their dogs, and the sheep obediently trot after them. They make their homes in low black tents of woven camel hair surrounded by thorny brush walls, and the sheep, goats and donkeys share the homes with them.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Former Marion Man, Returning After 45 Years, is Amazed at Many Changes

One of Marion's 1928 fledgelings chances to return to Marion for his first visit a half-century hence to see a thickly populated city of skyscrapers, big business blocks, efficient airport and well regulated bus traffic, he will be no more astounded than was Samuel A. Dutt, 69, upon his arrival here this summer after 45 years absence in the west.

After wandering through the West for nearly 50 years, visiting every state west of Missouri, and settling in Longview, Wash., to raise a family, Mr. Dutt returned to Marion several weeks ago upon hearing of the illness of his sister, Mrs. Catherin Behner, of near Owens, who is 82 years old.

During his visit Mr. Dutt is dividing his time with his sister and three brothers, Charles Dutt, of Prospect, John Dutt, of Hamberg, Mich., and Philip Dutt, of south of the city. He is at the latter's home at the present time.

Over Six Times Larger.

Leaving a budding city of some 5,000 inhabitants 45 years ago as a young man, Mr. Dutt returned to find that those 5,000 had swelled their numbers beyond the 30,000 mark, and had added all the improvements and necessities of a flourishing city.

Even the courthouse and the street pavements, now in a ripe old age, Mr. Dutt regarded as "new" for they were improvements unthought of when he left Marion, a young man of 24. Marion's business blocks, new hotel and new theater, to say nothing of the Harding memorial, while surpassed by the elegance of far larger cities in the west, Mr. Dutt found none the less wonderful because they addd to the attractiveness of "home."

Old-Time Entertainment.

While the chief entertainment offered in Marion a century ago was the county fair once a year, a wagon circus or an occasional barn dance, today Mr. Dutt was greeted with parks, picture shows, dance halls and other entertainments.

A striking difference was the fact that when 45 years ago one "drove to town" there were plenty of places to park—hitching posts along every street—today when one "motors" in one joins that vast throng which drives endlessly around "hunting a place to park."

Industrially Marion had grown far beyond his expectations, Mr. Dutt said. When he left here the Huber Manufacturing Co. was the principal plant, the Marion Steam Shovel Co. was operating in its early stages as the "Barnhart Steam Shovel Co." and the Osgood plant had not been built or even thought of. There were only two railroads through here and three or four churches, the Free Will Baptist on Center st., the Lutheran and the Presbyterian in process of construction.

Mr. Dutt recalled too, the old toll gate on the Prospect pk., the timber and sheep farms, the old-fashioned butter churns and the boardwalks through the city, marks of early Marion a number of its present citizens have never seen.

A house where bad temper prevails is better ruled by silence.

WORLD'S OLDEST COUPLE ARE BOTH OVER CENTURY

Belgrade—What is probably the oldest couple in the world have just been discovered in a small Serbian village, Verbitza, near Aranjolvats. The husband, Dimitrije Filipovitch, 110 years old, has been married since the age of eight to Jivana, age 107. They live happily in a little house, apparently extremely pleased after long, happy years together.

Both are teetotallers at the present time, although during a few years they drank light wine.

Dimitrije tells interesting facts of past events. His wife is less talkative and has great horror of camera men. On the occasion of their recent anniversary day, it was almost impossible to make her consent to a little photograph.

"You have come around just ninety years to late," she argued, "you would have taken a pretty woman then."

If a woman is short on beauty she always imagines that she is long on tact.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

PASSING THE PAPRIKA

A man's heart is always awakened by love—but after marriage it is so apt to roll over and go right back to sleep again.

• • •

A man can always make a fool of a woman who loves him—provided she doesn't beat him to it by making a fool herself.

• • •

It is a bitter shock to a man's vanity to discover that the girl to whom he has been making love just for a pastime has just been letting him do it merely as a little diversion between two serious love affairs.

• • •

A man usually figures that if he is only half an hour late, his wife is sure to be peeved; but if he can stay out long enough for her to visualize him lying on a stretcher, she will fall on his neck with relief instead of with reproach.

• • •

One of a man's sweetest forms of philanthropy consists in making love to all the women he is sure won't take him seriously, and thus helping them to hold onto their vanity without letting go of his freedom.

• • •

The thing that wears a man all out around the house is having to spend half his time explaining why he didn't do the things he ought to have been doing the other half.

• • •

Nothing makes a man so desperately sure that he WANTS a woman as her effort to convince him that he doesn't.

• • •

The only thing that makes a woman more nervous than having a man off somewhere else when he ought to be at home is to have him hanging around the house when he ought to be somewhere else.

• • •

The richest lovers often make the poorest husbands; probably because the man who has the money to change his automobile every year usually has the time and the impulse to change his heart just as often.

• • •

Moderism: Love, and the world laughs with you—marry, and it laughs AT you.

The Constant Flame

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Her sharp eyes saw everything; the [illegible] fingers ran over the hangings, the furniture, the walls. Emily watched anxiously, but Frances only [illegible]'d many times and finally [illegible] her square solid self into a chair.

Mrs. Rossiter, however, had more to say.

"You did as well as you could, Mrs. Haden. And what a decided little [illegible] you've got! That stretch of space [illegible]—I didn't in the least want it, but you persuaded me. I see her point, of course. You'll be having a [illegible] one of these days."

"Fate so granted. "Perhaps."

"She's angry with me," Emily confided. "Strange that isn't like her. A sad thing to lose such a friend—to lose Frances. If I might tell her how well I meant!"

But when they were driving back to the shop the keen face looked so forbidding that she could only wait miserably.

Once inside, Frances opened her desk briskly and began to do a great lot of figuring. Finally she nodded at Emily who sat by mutely, hands pressed together.

"How much have you in the bank, girl?"

It wasn't much; three hundred and forty-eight dollars and ninety-six cents.

"Buy a car with the 96 cents. You want to go into business?

"Do I?"

"For a thousand dollars down you can have a third interest in this shebang. Live on your salary and turn back your share of profits to pay the remainder."

"But—go in with you? If I could! You see it's taken all this time to save the three hundred. Years and years for the rest. Be an old lady in a wheel-chair then."

"Humph! Forgetting your commission on this last job, aren't you?"

"Commission? You don't mean—"

"I mean I figure 10 per cent of any job above cost of labor and material as the price of what's in my head. Judgment, taste, experience. It was what's in your head this time."

"But—"

"You've earned it, Emily. Don't doubt that. I never have seen a better piece of work."

"Truly? You mean it, dear Frances? And I thought you were offended!" Her eyes were brimming now; she put out a small hand.

Frances laughed and took the hand. "Don't be sensitive, dear. It's egotism turned upside down. How about it; do I get a new partner or not? Growing too old to manage this racket alone, seems to me."

"As if you could! I never can thank you—oh, you're giving me what I wanted most of everything in the world!"

But Frances shook her gray head. "Not most, dear. Life is made up of substitutes largely. Still all things are possible to a high heart."

Very cryptic that might have sounded but it never occurred to Emily to doubt that Frances knew what was in every closed and secret corner of her thought.

A man whom she often met in the salon at Great View once told her that Mrs. Haiden had an "X-ray mind."

"She sees through and beyond things that baffle others," he explained. "And she is almost too logical. Give her a bit of a situation, ever so tiny a shred of it, and she will construct the whole thing for you as quickly as you can think.

"She will say, 'That is so, therefore this and this must be so, too.' And always it is so. A remarkable woman, that Mrs. Haiden."

Remarkable—yes. Years ago when Emily was a kid at school she fell in love with Kent Rossiter. A little girl from up the Hill, daughter of Steve Day, factory hand. A small nobody weaving dreams about the son of the town banker and patrician.

A school day thing of no more consequence, one would say, than a child hanging up a stocking on Christmas Eve or hunting fairy rings under the evergreens on a summer morning.

But it had influenced her whole life and Frances understood. And now she said all things were possible to the high heart.

A warm glow of affection for the homely, middle-aged woman swept Emily. She threw her arms around the square shoulders and cried a little before she went racing up the hill to tell Agnes the news.

"Mus, what do yo uthink? Seven hundred dollars commission and I'm going to buy a share in Frances shop!"

Agnes showed no elation. "Seven hundred dollars is more than your father and I had to start housekeeping. I hope Marty'll not take it amiss."

"But you don't understand, dear. I'll have my own business now!"

"And what business does a woman want more than her husband's home? You'd better have saved the money, Emmy. It would have given the lad a fair start."

"Oh, you'd spoil it for me, Mus! You'd do that! And it means so much to us."

The tired old hand went up, rope standing out along the back. Emily choked back a protest and laid her cheek against the mouse-colored head.

"Marty won't need any help from me dear. He can manage better than most."

"You'll not give him up, Emmy? It's only I want you, wife, baby."

Kitten, who was watching, grinned in a singularly impish way.

Frances went to Benny Hahn who handled most of Lyall's law business and had papers all drawn up to be signed. Very important Emily felt, very much the successful young business woman as she dipped her pen and wrote her signature half a dozen times across the pages.

Mr. Hahn smiled broadly and congratulated her; then she followed Frances back to the shop.

Already a workman was changing the name on the window. Below the "Frances Haiden" he was marking in neat, gold lettering, "Emily Day". She watched for a moment in a vivid breathlessness; then a rich exuberance came beating at her throat. She felt as she had on the morning when the sun struck a blinding ray from the summit of North Mountain.

Achievement! She had done this, climbed a bit. Not the heights yet but a way up. She would go on, reach the top. Aristocracy of achievement—what did she care for the tin badge of caste? For blue blood?

No such heady thrill in knowing an ancestor had done a great thing as there was in your own fine accomplishment.

She thought of Kent and hoped he'd see her name on the window some day. Marty already knew—he waved at her across the street. Kingdon Coles she didn't remember at all.

She was so wrapped up in pride that she paid no attention to a car which almost brushed her as it spun by. When it turned the corner she caught a glimpse of red hair and a flutter of green.

"Looked like Kitten," she thought, absently.

But the gold lettering flashed in the sun and she forgot the car.

Harry Gives Party Surprise

LILLIAN is what Dicky calls an "efficiency shark" in getting things done in a hurry, but she never pays much attention to dress, and I knew that she had overlooked a most important detail in the selection of Marion's hats which she was rushing through.

"If I may make a suggestion," I murmured, as she indicated a fourth hat to the saleswoman, already carrying three in her arms.

"A dozen," she returned looking attentively at me.

"Marion ought to have the dress with her when she tries on those hats, but you told her to send it out."

She opened her purse and thrust a roll of bills in my hand.

"Flag it if you can," she said, "pay for it and bring it. In the box all ready for tying, down here. Have them put the outer coat on the top so we can get it out easily. That's all she'll need for the trying on. I'd go myself, only——"

"If you start any apologies I shall choke you," I threatened and hurried out of the department. I reached the suit desk just as the saleswoman was beginning to make out the slip for sending, and in another five minutes we were all back in the millinery department, with Marion, invested in the coat of the new suit, trying on the hats piled on the table near the big mirror.

It did not take her long to decide. There was one hat which seemed to have been made for the suit she had selected. It was one she had lingered over earlier in the afternoon and then complained that it hurt her forehead. But neither Lillian nor I moved an eyelash to indicate our amusement when she laid aside the hat.

"We'll carry these packages with us to the shoe and glove and hosiery departments," Lillian said. "Then we'll be sure that we are getting the right tints. I think we'll have time for everything if we hurry."

There was something akin to awed admiration in Marion's eyes as she trailed her mother to the elevator, and there flashed into my brain a confiding comment she once had made to me.

"You never can put anything over on Mother," she had said, and there had been pride in her voice at her mother's astuteness. I was glad to see that in her face now there was nothing of the sly planning and ugly sullenness which had marred it before.

It was exactly seven minutes to four when Marion's last purchase—some handkerchiefs to go with the traveling outfit—was wrapped, and laden with parcels we made our way toward the entrance where we had promised to meet Dicky and Harry. Suddenly Lillian stopped and put a restraining hand on my arm.

"Go on out to the door, girls, and wait for us. There's one thing I've forgotten which I must get for myself. I don't think I'll be a minute overtime, but if I am, don't come back here for us. We'll come out to the door the minute we're finished."

Mary obeyed with alacrity. Marion with slower and I guessed reluctant movements, but they were both out of sight in another minute. Then Lillian drew me to a counter where there was a most alluring display of hand bags.

"Marion doesn't need a new bag," she said, "but Mary does, and I'm going to get her one for her birthday. Now don't do any protesting"—she shut off my expostulations firmly—"this is my party, and I guess if you can get her a leather jacket, I can get her a bag. How is this one?"

She held up an extremely smart purse of a type which would go with almost any suit.

"It couldn't be better," I said. "Can you wait just a minute? I want to buy one of these for myself."

For near my hand was a bag that simply pleaded to be worn with Marion's new outfit. Lillian looked suspiciously at me when I ordered it wrapped up, but I stared her down, and we hurried to the door, arriving there exactly upon the stroke of four and finding only Dicky there talking to the two girls. He quickly possessed himself of our bundles, and grasped Lillian by the arm.

"We have a taxi waiting, hurry!" he said and led the way down the street a few yards where Mr. Pudenwood was standing by an exceedingly smart automobile.

"Let me present you to the new family car of the Underwoods," Dicky said with a flourish.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

FEEBLE is more like a boy than a girl. I don't know a boy that would take a belly-slammer on top of a pickle bigger than a dinner plate, and hold it after it bit her thumb. And her thumb must of hurt. It looked like a three cornered cut made with a knife. I told Jubilee it was Friday when I was letting him down, and he is not so very bright, because he was only about half way down and he went to bark like he does sometimes to let me know he knows what I am talking about, so he went the rest of the way without the rope. If he does that much more I will have to begin letting him down in a basket.

When I had got on my short britches and had got my work done and was feeding my face so as to take the dummed brutes to the pasture my mother asted me if any of the bunch has got apple trees in their yards. She said if we would bring her some green apples she would make some pies, and would make enough so we could all have some. So we went out and got chaseted out of three orchards before we got in one and got our shirts full of apples. Then we went around to Frenchy's where there is an apple tree and whose mother is dead, so there is not anyone home all day, and we spilled all the apples on the ground under the tree and then picked them up and put them in our shirts again. Then we hiked out for my house, and my mother said they were the finest green apples she ever saw and asted where we got them, and I said we picked them up under the tree in Frenchy's yard. So my mother and Maggie and Feeble and Yeppiss got busy peeling them and cutting them up and my mother had the pie thus all ready, and we went over to the brickyard and went in swimming in the mudhole and left the girls to help my mother. And I told Feeble to whistle on her fingers when she was ready, because we'd be playing ball over in the brickyard, but instead of whistling they all came trahing over to tell us. I had my shirt over my head when I heard them holler, and I went to take a header into the mudhole shirt and all, but I missed the mudhole and landed on my head on the ground. When I got my shirt out of my eyes they were gone and the rest of the bunch had come out from behind the wood piles. My neck was almost broke. If it hadn't been for the pies we wouldn't have went near the girls. My mother served the pie to us in bowls with cream and sugar like cobbler, and we all et so much it showed on us, and there was enough pie left for our Sunday dinner.

I didn't eat much supper, just a couple of potatoes and a piece of beefsteak and two slices of bread and a glass of milk. The pie had spoilt my appetite. I was let set up as late as I wanted to, but Jubilee whined outside so I went to bed.
